

'Best year ever, but rates going up'

'Real progress'; Postal Service loses only $50 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service still plans to raise rates next year, even though it's in its best financial shape ever.

Next week, the Postal Service board of governors is expected to propose increasing the first-class letter rate from 13 cents to 15 or 16 cents early in 1978.

The agency, while making "real progress," still lost $50 million in the last 12 months, says Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar.

Bailar said Friday that the operating loss was drastically lower than the previous year's record $1.2 billion and below the Postal Service's $500 million average annual deficit.

The postmaster general said the agency's financial condition is better than at any time since the 1971 reorganization made it substantially independent of Congress and the president.

But he added that because "inflation continues to plague the Postal Service," steps must be taken soon to increase rates next year.

Bailar said the agency, under existing labor agreements, must soon pay raises to most of its workers. And other cost increases, such as for fuel, are inevitable, he said.

Last year Bailar testified before a Senate committee that the Postal Service was in such financial peril that it could become insolvent within a year.

He said that when the new rates take effect early next year, over two years will have passed since the last increase in first-class rates.

"I think that is evidence that the Postal Service is successfully managing its budget and controlling cost as much as possible," he said.

Postage increases, once proposed by the board of governors, need be approved only by the Postal Rate Commission.

At one time officials had expected to lose about $1 billion in the year ended June 30.

The financial picture improved after Bailar ordered that many job vacancies be filled by transferring workers not needed in their present posts, rather than by hiring new employees. This policy, which has sparked controversy with the postal unions, has reduced the work force to 657,000 people, some 84,000 less than before the 1971 reorganization.

The postmaster general contended this reduction has not hurt service, a view disputed by the unions, many congressmen and others.

Bailar said Postal Service statistics show that on-time delivery was as frequent in the last 12 months as at any time during the six years.

"The Postal Service delivered 96 per cent of mail eligible for overnight delivery on time and 94 per cent of mail designated for second- and third-day delivery," he said.

U.S. enters Indian land recovery suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will bring suit on behalf of three Indian tribes to recover lands in New York State, the Interior Department announced Friday.

Interior Solicitor Leo M. Krulitz said the actions in New York would be similar to a suit being planned in Maine where the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes are seeking to recover large areas of the state. The Justice Department will handle the litigation.

The New York suits will involve the Oneida, Cayuga and St. Regis Mohawk tribes and cover about 235,000 acres, most of it claimed by the Oneida Nation.

"The position which we are now taking on behalf of the tribes is that, as a matter of law, the United States should pursue (the Indian) claims," Krulitz said in a statement.

Krulitz said the Interior Department made its final recommendations to the Justice Department earlier in the week. He said the legal argument would be similar to the one use in the Maine land dispute.

The Maine Indians are claiming ownership to 60 per cent of the state because they say the lands were ceded to the states without formal participation of the U.S. government as required by the 1790 Nonintercourse Act.

Krulitz said the suit on behalf of the three New York tribes would seek "ejectment and damages" against those persons currently claiming the land.

Krulitz said portions of the New York claims would be barred if the suits are not filed by Aug. 18, but that a bill is pending in Congress to extend the deadline. As in the Maine case, the two sides presumably will seek a negotiated settlement.

The lands involved in the New York dispute are:

—200,000 acres generally located in Madison and Oneida counties in the central part of the state. They are sought by the Oneida Nation.

—62,000 acres along a three-mile wide strip surrounding the northern half of Cayuga Lake in Cayuga and Seneca counties, being sought by the Cayuga tribe.

—12,500 acres in Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, including some land in the towns of Fort Covington and Massena, being claimed by the St. Regis Mohawk tribe.

Rockwell lays off 1st 2,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two thousand Rockwell International employees who were working on the B1 bomber received layoff notices Friday, in the wake of President Carter's decision to halt its production.

The total number of layoffs is expected to reach 8,000 within the next 30 days, officials said.

Those laid off Friday, from both the Los Angeles manufacturing center and at the Palmdale assembly plant, were in the engineering, manufacturing, tooling, purchasing and support personnel areas of the B1 division.

Louis Cecchi, director of personnel and administration for the division, said a program to assist the laid off employees was under way. Services include a review of job skills and qualifications by representatives of other Rockwell Aerospace divisions and by other companies.

In addition, employees will be assisted in preparing resumes and will be told about company benefits due them.

Manhunt for two who killed marshal spreads

Kidnaped ranger found slain

MAGAZINE, Ark. (AP) — The body of a park ranger abducted by two men who killed the town marshal and wounded another ranger earlier this week was found Friday about 40 miles east of here.

Sheriff W.C. Hamilton said the body of Opal James was found near where the U.S. Corps of Engineers pickup truck had been hidden by the gunmen, who used it as a getaway vehicle.

"It looked like the brush had been cut and laid on top of the truck," Hamilton said. "The body was lying behind the truck. It looked like he had been shot once in the head."

Hamilton said he assumed the two gunmen walked about 10 miles south to Oden where another pickup truck, which was recovered in Oklahoma on Friday, was stolen Thursday night. It was not known if that truck has been stolen by the killers.

The sheriff said the two apparently used back roads through the dense forest to elude roadblocks on the major highways.

James, 58, of Havana, Ark., was a 30-year employee of the Corps of Engineers and had spent most of his career as a maintenance man. He was promoted to ranger about three years ago.

State Police Capt. Buren Jackson said authorities believed "there is the strongest possibility" that the two gunmen had fled Arkansas and moved west into Oklahoma.

He said all of his men had been called off of the search "because all indications are they (the gunmen) are now out of state."

About 125 men had been guided by local woodsmen in a search of the Ouachita National Forest.

The suspects, who have not been identified, are believed to be in their 20s and armed with .357-magnum pistols and a .44-magnum pistol.

In Purcell, authorities also launched a massive manhunt as troopers fanned out around the south-central Oklahoma town.

Troopers said they believed the gunmen were in the Purcell area, about 35 miles south of Oklahoma City. A highway patrol spokesman said FBI agents were en route to Purcell from Arkansas.

A YEN FOR BEAUTY

donesia, Indri Hapsari Soeharto; Miss Germany, Dagmar Winkler; and Miss Hawaii, Prunella Julie Nickson. Miss Canadell, a 21-year-old secretary, won two million yen, or about $7,500.

Ex-congressman pleads guilty to campaign fraud

Tonry faces 4-year prison term

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Congressman Richard A. Tonry, whose political fortunes fell even more quickly than they rose, pleaded guilty Friday to campaign violations that could mean four years in prison and a $70,000 fine.

Tonry admitted conspiring to get backers to violate the $1,000 federal limit on cash campaign contributions, and he admitted promising jobs or influence to those contributors.

The charges are misdemeanors. Under a new federal election law, no contributor can give more than $1,000 cash to a political candidate's campaign fund.

In Tonry's whirlwind rise and fall, the brief court session Friday was the low point.

The summit was an upset victory over James Moreau by 184 votes in a Democratic primary last year, and a victory over a Republican and an independent in November to represent Louisiana's 1st Congressional District, which includes parts of New Orleans and nearby parishes.

After the primary, a state judge ruled Tonry received at least 229 fraudulent votes and Moreau had received at least 25.

Tonry reached Congress only to confront a committee investigating whether he should be expelled. On May 3 — the day before the scheduled committee vote — he resigned, making a special election necessary back home.

Tonry quickly flew home to campaign for re-nomination, and jauntily urged House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to "keep my seat warm."

But bravado could not stop the downward slide.

On May 12, he was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of obstructing justice, receiving more than $54,000 in illegal campaign contributions, promising jobs for political purposes and conspiracy.

While in Congress, Tonry was considered affable, agreeable, reasonably well-liked.

Soviets denounce U.S. 'arms drive'

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass said Friday the decision by President Carter to deploy cruise missiles marked the start of a new round in a "dangerous arms drive" by the United States.

In a dispatch from Washington, Tass asserted:

"The implementation of the program for the deployment of cruise missiles is a reflection of the general line of the U.S.A. towards an increase in the military budget, towards building up the war arsenal and creating qualitatively new systems of mass destruction weapons."

Carter announced Thursday that while he was stopping production of the B1 bomber, the United States should begin deployment of the cruise missile, which he described as a key alternative to the costly, controversial bomber.

The President said the weapons program would go ahead while he assesses progress in the strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviets. The cruise missile has been a major point of difference in the talks.

An initial Tass dispatch Thursday reported Carter's news conference remarks without comment.

The later Tass story said, "The funds released as a result of the President's decision not to start manufacture of B1 bombers ... will be used for speeding up the creation of an arsenal of cruise missiles."

"U.S. political observers express the opinion that the massive deployment of cruise missiles may have very a dangerous aftermath," the news agency said, pointing to possible effects on the SALT talks as well as U.S.-Soviet relations generally.

Tass also cited several other U.S. military developments, including testing of a new missile for the Trident submarine, impending deployment of more MK12a warheads on Minuteman missiles, along with continuing work on the big MX missile and antipersonnel neutron warheads.

White House studies plan for gas rationing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's top energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, said Friday the administration is considering gasoline rationing as one alternative to its unpopular proposal to raise the tax on gasoline to discourage consumption.

Schlesinger told reporters at an energy policy briefing that another possible alternative is shutting down gasoline stations on weekends or restricting motorists to gasoline purchases on odd-or-even-numbered days.

Schlesinger, who was accompanied by members of his staff, limited reporters throughout the rest of the briefing to attribute remarks only to unidentified "White House energy officials."

The officials said the Carter administration was pleased with the progress of the President's proposed energy policies through Congress. They said most of Carter's proposals, although sometimes modified, were going forward with the major exception of the proposed standby gasoline tax.

Carter had asked authorization to impose a gasoline tax increasing up to a maximum of 50 cents per gallon unless the nation reduced its gasoline consumption.

The tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee killed that proposal.

$1.6 million 'dug up,' linked to slain widow

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — More than $1.6 million believed stolen from the Indianapolis home of a slain widow has been found buried in the desert 20 miles north of here, the FBI said Friday.

Two cardboard boxes containing $1,673,460 were discovered Thursday by agents acting on information provided by authorities in Indianapolis.

The money was found more than a month after Howard R. Willard, 38, and his ex-wife, Marjorie Pollitt, 49, were arrested in Phoenix and turned over to authorities in Indiana. They face state murder charges and federal charges of transporting stolen money across state lines.

Four other persons have been arrested and charged with federal or state crimes in connection with the robbery from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, found shot to death when fire fighters responded to an alarm there May 6. The thieves apparently set fire to the home.

More than $5 million in cash was found stuffed in garbage cans, a vacuum cleaner bag, closets and a tool box at Mrs. Jackson's home. Authorities said they believed about $6 million had been stolen.

Mrs. Jackson had withdrawn the cash from her bank because of her distrust of bankers. A bank official had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge involving misuse of funds from the estate of Mrs. Jackson's husband, who once owned a large chain of grocery stores in Indiana.

Leon Gaskill, FBI agent in charge in Phoenix, said the money found Thursday was buried about two feet deep in the desert near the intersection of Interstate 17 and Pinnacle Peak Road.

Alaska's natural gas for 48 states

Brown favors Canada pipeline

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Friday a pipeline across Canada with a Western leg would be the best option in terms of time, money and the environment to bring Alaskan natural gas to the lower 48 states.

But Brown said he could not endorse any of the three competing transmission proposals in the absence of a Canadian decision on whether it would allow an overland pipeline.

Two proposals — Arctic and Alcan — call for pipelines from the North Slope through Canada with Western legs to California. The third — by El Paso Natural Gas Co. — would employ tankers to bring the gas to Pt. Conception as liquefied natural gas.

In a letter to President Slope gas by overland pipeline through Canada, with a direct spur to Western leg to the Western states, is the most timely, least costly and most environmentally sound option.

Both the Arctic and Alcan pipeline proposals depend on pending decisions by the Canadian National Energy Board and the Canadian government. The board is scheduled to release its decision on Monday.

Carter asked governors of all the states to submit their preferences to him by Friday. He is scheduled to announce his decision by Sept. 1, subject to approval by the Congress.

Brown told Carter, "...it would be premature for me to express a preference among the three competing proposals before the proper authorities of Canada have spoken on this issue."

California's major gas companies support the Arctic pipeline project because they say it would encourage Canada to continue exports by helping that nation transport some of its own gas from Alberta and the MacKenzie River Delta.

Alaska's lieutenant governor has testified in California that his state wants the El Paso project, which would have a pipeline alongside the Carter, the Democratic governor said: "Generally, I believe that delivery of North recently opened oil pipeline.

Alcan officials say their project would be more environmentally sound because it would roughly parallel the Alaska-Canada highway.

Brown told Carter that the North Slope gas route selection and method of delivery "are of prime importance to California."

Gas companies see LNG from Indonesia and southern Alaska as a better hope for dealing with shortages of gas they anticipate to hit crisis proportion in the winter of 1980-81. The North Slope gas would be available a year or two later than the LNG projects.

Rome shootout

Guerrilla slain by police guns

ROME (AP) — Police and three suspected leftist guerrillas shot it out Friday near the steps of the Church of St. Peter in Chains in downtown Rome, sending dozens of bystanders scuttling for cover. One guerrilla was killed and two, both women, were captured.

No police casualties were reported.

Authorities said the three were key members of the "Red Brigades," a guerrilla squad that has claimed responsibility for shooting or kidnapping dozens of industrialists, journalists and other the group labeled enemies of the workers.

The women, who escaped last year from a Naples prison, were hospitalized with minor injuries, police said. They were convicted of renting apartments used by the guerrillas as hideouts for themselves and their kidnap victims.

Authorities said police in a patrol car spotted the trio eating fruit on the steps of the church, which is one of Rome's main tourist attractions and houses Michelangelo's statue of Moses.

The three noticed the policemen and fled in different directions, shooting at their pursuers, a spokesman said.

Police returned fire with automatic weapons, and bystanders ran for cover in narrow streets surrounding the church near the Colosseum.

The spokesman said a volley of gunfire hit Antonio Lo Muscio in the chest, killing him on the spot. Franca Salerno was hit in the elbow and Maria Pia Vianale suffered a broken nose when she fell trying to escape, he said.

Authorities said the three had been seen by police several times in recent months, but escaped after exchanges of gunfire.

The spokesman said Lo Muscio took over leadership of the urban guerrilla group when the co-leader, Martino Zecchi-tella, was killed by police two months ago. Zecchi-tella was shot when he and Lo Muscio attempted to ambush the chief of the Rome antiterrorist police squad.

Cleaver files $4.5 million suit against ex-officials

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

— Claiming they were the target of a conspiracy, former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his wife, Kathleen, filed a $4.5 million damage suit Friday against a host of former government officials.

The civil rights action names as defendants former Special FBI Agent in Charge Charles Bates, the estate of the late FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, two FBI agents, former U.S. Attorneys General John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst, former CIA director Richard Helms and former Postmaster General Winton Blount.

The suit alleges the defendants conspired over the past decade with other state, federal and local law enforcement officials to deprive the Cleavers of their civil rights.

The Cleavers told a news conference that the conspiracy was intended to destroy them politically and socially. Cleaver said it involved "the perversion, twisting and deforming of these law enforcement agencies."

"I have to credit the Black Panther party to the FBI and CIA," he said, "and in cahoots also were local law enforcement agencies."

According to the suit, the conspiracy strived to break up the Black Panthers through a false letter writing campaign.

It alleges "literally scores of letters" were written anonymously or under false pen names in the early 1970s by the defendants and sent to party members and newspapers "containing statements designed and intended to create dissension within the Black Panther party and to cause a split within the party and the expulsion of Eldridge Cleaver from the party."

The suit claims the conspiracy also sought to block Cleaver's 1968 bid for the United States presidency through "force intimidation and threat" and also interfered with his wife's congressional campaign.

Truck driver is charged in traffic death of girl

An Upland dump truck driver has been charged with vehicular manslaughter in the traffic death Tuesday of a teenage Claremont girl.

The defendant is Gilberto A. Ortiz, 31, who was named in a misdemeanor complaint charging him with manslaughter in the death of 14-year-old Sherry Skapik. The complaint alleges that the act was committed "without gross negligence," a misdemeanor offense. The maximum penalty is one year in jail. The accident occurred shortly after 12:30 p.m. at Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards in Claremont. Ortiz was driving a truck for an Upland trucking company.

Police reported that the victim was riding her bike southbound when the truck, headed west in Foothill, hit a car and then the girl. The victim was dragged 40 feet beneath the truck which was loaded with several tons of asphalt, according to police. Sherry was returning home from summer school classes at Claremont High School.

Ortiz, who is free on $1,000 bail, faces arraignment July 19 in Pomona Municipal Court.

She kept his body 3 years

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Preliminary results of an autopsy support the macabre story of a woman who said she locked her former husband's body in a closet for three years after he committed suicide.

Frizelle Aguilar, 44, told police earlier this week that Herbert Fischer, 41, killed himself in 1974 when she refused his request for reconciliation after they were divorced.

Fischer's remains were found in a garage closet which Mrs. Aguilar said she nailed shut after she put the body inside.

Mrs. Aguilar, a biologist, told police she poured formaldehyde and other disinfectants over the body and put mothballs in the closet.

She said she went to police after three years because her conscience bothered her.

Police said they also found a dog preserved in formaldehyde in another closet.

Officers said Friday that preliminary results of an autopsy lend credence to Mrs. Aguilar's contention that Fischer shot himself in the head with a .38-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Aguilar has not been arrested. Police said results of the investigation would be turned over to the district attorney.

Fireworks linked to blaze

A house fire possibly started by aerial fireworks resulted in a $55,000 loss in Hacienda Heights Friday afternoon.

Firemen said the blaze at 1176 Ameluxen Ave. touched off roof fires on three other nearby homes, but those fires were extinguished before major damage could be done.

Three firemen suffered minor injuries in battling the fire. All were released after being treated. Loss was estimated at $40,000 to the structure and an additional $15,000 in contents.

Officials said the blaze points out the extreme danger of fireworks and homes with wood shake roofs.

Lincoln portrait

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution recently acquired a portrait of Abraham Lincoln painted by Massachusetts-born artist William Willard.

The portrait shows Lincoln in profile and was done, in part, from the Mathew Brady portrait used for the Lincoln head on the $5 federal reserve note. The portrait, painted circa 1864, was placed on display on Lincoln's birthday. It is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Morse of Washington.

Two fires in Pomona cause $5,000 losses

Two structure fires in Pomona caused losses of $5,000 each Friday.

The first fire, at 9:17 a.m., occurred at 1360 E. Pasadena St. in one unit of an apartment complex.

Firemen said occupants of the second floor apartment were not home but were in the process of moving and had stacked boxes on top of an electric stove. Electricity to the apartment was apparently off when the boxes were set on the range, with the occupants unaware the burner dials were in the on position. When the electricity was turned on to the unit the fire started.

Damage was confined to the kitchen area. There were no injuries.

In the second fire debris around a water heater apparently ignited a blaze that spread through a porch and into the attic of a three-story older house at 812 W. Second St.

Firemen had to use axes to gain entry to the attic through the roof in extinguishing the blaze.

There were no injuries. Firemen did assist one man in getting out of the house.

Parents fear missing girl was kidnaped

A teen-age San Diego girl, visiting relatives in the Fontana area, has disappeared and her parents fear she may have met with foul play.

The girl, Janet Evon Nixon, 15, daughter of John and Carryn Nixon, vanished from Fontana address where the family was visiting last Wednesday night. Family members have not heard from her since then.

Mrs. Nixon said Janet has only a few acquaintances in the area. She added that the girl has relatives in Pomona and in China.

Mrs. Nixon said that there had been no family problems and that she fears her daughter may have been abducted.

Janet is white, 5 feet 8 and weighs 120 pounds. She has brown, shoulder-length hair, brown eyes and was wearing pink Dittos and a striped, multi-colored blouse when she was seen last.

JANET E. NIXON

Mrs. Nixon said Janet had no money.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Six members of the McGuire Family of West Covina attend Mt. San Antonio College. Shown are Lillian, left, Bonnie, Susan, Wilbur and John. Renee was at work when the photo was taken. Lillian and Wilbur, parents, were graduated as members of the Class of 1977.

McGuire family of West Covina provides variety on MSAC campus

Lillian, Wilbur, John, Suzanna, Renee and Bonnie are all members of the McGuire clan of West Covina.

All are or have been members of the Mt. San Antonio College student body, not only once, but twice and in one case, three times.

The six represent the cross section of students on the college's campus, from adult students returning to education for additional training or new careers, to high school graduates starting their higher education courses, to still-in-high-school students getting a head start on college courses, and to students taking courses at home as part of the instructional television program.

Mother Lillian and father Wilbur were graduated this month. It was Lillian's third time around. She completed her licensed vocational nursing certificate program in 1969 and returned to earn her LVN associate in science degree in 1973. This time she received an associate in arts in sociology.

The former U.S. Air Force technical sergeant recruiter will transfer to Cal Poly in September to concentrate on a bachelor's degree in sociology.

Lillian, who works part time at her nursing, also took two of the college's instructional television classes this semester. And she joined her musical children by taking a beginning course in piano on campus.

Her husband is the manager of the Chief Auto Supply Co. in West Covina, but has found time the past two years to take classes toward his associate in arts degree in psychology. McGuire, a former member of the U.S. Navy, took his education under the G.I. Bill.

He was a top student and this year was nominated as one of the college's "Men and Women of Distinction."

From MSAC, Wilbur will continue his education at UCLA, majoring in psychiatry.

Their son, John is 22 and already earned one degree in 1974 in machine tool technology. He's back on campus as an engineering major this time.

While he was here the first time, he threw the javelin and shot for the college's track and field team, and was a trombonist for the jazz, concert and dance bands.

In 1974, John was selected as one of the students across the nation to be included in the publication, "Who's Who in American Colleges."

Today, the Diamond Bar resident works as a mold maker while adding more classes, more degrees, and more options to his life.

His sister Suzanna, 21, was a radiologic technology major this year and will graduate in June 1978 with an associate in science in the allied health technologies field. Like her mother and father, she is a full-time student. Currently living in Pomona, she is an inspector for a hospital firm.

Renee is 19 and attended MSAC last fall, then transferred to Citrus College where she is majoring in cosmetology and maintaining her interest in music by playing the French horn. Renee and the youngest member of the McGuire family, Bonnie, still live with their parents in West Covina.

Bonnie, 17, is in her junior year at West Covina High School. But she took advantage of one of the college's unique programs, the College Starter Courses.

She took a data processing evening class, while still completing her college prep classes at high school. Her course credit in the starter class will be applied to her full transcript when she comes to MSAC as a full-time student after high school graduation in June 1978.

Bonnie is also musically inclined and plays the trumpet in the school band. She's also an athlete, and participates as a member of the high school badminton team.

She hasn't quite made up her mind between nursing and computer sciences, but she says she'll make that decision next summer when she discusses her options with her MSAC counselor.

Mrs. McGuire is proud of her achieving family and credits them with her own successes. "The kids were about 5, 7, 9 and 11 when I started, and they 'pushed' me through... they helped me as I went through my algebra courses and chemistry classes a few years ago. My husband and the children have always encouraged me. We insisted that the children go on to college, and I guess doing it ourselves has helped them, too."

Mrs. McGuire is enthusiastic about the education possibilities in California. "Everyone should take advantage of the community colleges. There are so many ways to go. I've taken three different types of course work... the certificate program, the regular degree courses and the television classes. Everyone can find something here at MSAC."

Fear in the classroom: a job hazard

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Are some valley teachers suffering from "combat neurosis?"

It's a term being used by psychiatrists who have had dealings with assaulted teachers or ones who fear attacks.

Teacher representatives indicate "combat neurosis" is a "very real thing" in valley school districts.

"We have a lot of people taking early retirement because of this neurosis thing," said Del Pfeifer, executive director of the Associated Pomona Teachers (APT).

Alfred Bloch, assistant professor of psychiatry at UCLA, presented his findings on a study of 253 assaulted teachers in Los Angeles schools at a recent meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Bloch, who uses the term "combat neurosis," said that many assaulted teachers have suffered "psychological" injury.

And school districts have made only "token efforts" to remedy the situation, he declared.

According to Pfeifer, there is more "fear" among Pomona teachers than actual assaults on them. He can recall some attacks, however.

Recently, two teachers in the adult education program at Pacific State Hospital were assaulted and suffered broken noses, Pfeifer reported. "They are under treatment for the injuries now."

"We have a problem with damaged cars belonging to teachers. The school board considered these claims at one time but figured the teacher's insurance company could take care of it."

Pfeifer notes that tire slashings are "mental cruelty."

Pomona school board President Don Donnelly indicates there have been "isolated attacks" on teachers by students, but adds the board has taken a hard line on violence.

"We have the dubious honor of having thrown more students out of our district than any of the surrounding districts," Donnelly said.

"There is a particle of truth to what Bloch said about teachers being told to keep quiet about assaults. But if I get proof of this happening here, I'll make sure it's investigated promptly. Teachers are on the firing line and should be supported."

The board president agrees that "mental fatigue" in the classroom is real and there is "stress" as it relates to classroom violence.

He claimed universities are doing a "lousy job" of preparing teachers for reality in today's classrooms. Pomona schools do have inservice training for teachers, but "not combat training. We don't teach them karate or how to box. That's not our role — that is the job of the police department."

Some teachers suffer from "combat neurosis" in the Chaffey Joint Union High School District, according to Mary Virginia Quarles, executive director of Associated Chaffey Teachers.

"We have many suffering from stresses and strains of the job who have collected workmen's compensation. Teachers come up with ulcers and migraine headaches."

The strain comes from "uncertainty" as to how students will act each day, said Mrs. Quarles. "Just maintaining the readiness for the unexpected makes teaching a lot harder these days than it was years ago."

She acknowledged that teachers have taken early retirement in her district because "they find they can no longer subject themselves to the situation."

Students just don't accept teachers as authority figures anymore, she noted. "Teachers used to tell kids to be quiet, and they would be quiet. Not so anymore."

Mrs. Quarles noted that teachers fear many things, including rapes in the classroom. She referred to a recent rape of a teacher in San Bernardino by a "non-student."

Charles Sanchez, president of Associated Chino Teachers, said there has been damage to teachers' cars but "I don't know of any assaults on teachers."

He said he appreciates what Bloch "is trying to do," and noted there are teachers who fall victim to assaults.

But Chino teachers have been able to handle situations that get out of control, he said. "I don't know of any who are under psychiatric care."

Offices closed Monday

In observance of Independence Day on Monday, all city, county, state and federal administrative offices will be closed.

The firemen, policemen, highway patrolmen and emergency medical personnel will be on duty, however, to serve the thousands of Southlanders expected to head to the mountains, beaches or parks in celebration of the holiday.

There will be no trash pickup in most valley cities on Monday and most communities will delay their daily pickup schedule by one day. Upland's trash will be collected on Monday.

The post offices in the valley will be on holiday schedules with no home delivery, but some facilities will remain open for mail deposits.

Many grocery and retail stores will be closed Monday. Banks and offices will also observe the holiday.

City council meetings scheduled for Monday have been postponed until Tuesday.

Supreme Court nominee named

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s newest nominee to the state Supreme Court is Frank Newman, who was one of Chief Justice Rose Bird's favorite teachers.

Newman, 59, a University of California law professor since 1946, was named Tuesday to be the Democratic governor's third appointee to the seven-member court.

He replaces Justice Marshall McComb, who was forced to retire by a judicial review commission on the grounds of senility.

Volunteer group organized to aid immunization program

VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Within the past year, 322,708 free immunizations were administered to residents of the Pomona and San Gabriel valleys.

While most of the shots were given in measles or flu clinics, others were administered for polio, rubella, diphtheria and whooping cough.

The public response to the crash clinic programs proved that the need exists to have children (and adults) immunized.

According to Los Angeles County Health Department officials, the need for immunization and education programs will continue. But there is a dire lack of funds in both state and county health departments and in the public school health programs to adequately serve the public.

For this reason, a new group, Volunteers in Action, has been organized to work specifically on school and community immunization programs.

The group, comprised of representatives from school nurses, the medical profession, civic groups, women's clubs, new media and other interested volunteers, will serve as a regional immunization advisory committee.

It will be a subcommittee of the Regional Advisory Council of the San Gabriel Valley Region of the county Department of Health Services.

At the organizational meeting this week, Priscilla

Daniel, associate director of nursing at Valley Presbyterian Hospital, said the group is the first to be organized in the state although the concept was presented to officials over two years ago.

"We must turn to volunteer support if any good immunization program is to be developed since neither the state nor the schools have adequate funding," Mrs. Daniel said.

Both health department staff and school nurses complained of the lack of communication between agencies during the recent drive to immunize students against measles in compliance with a state law.

Bob Gibson, immunization program coordinator for the San Gabriel Valley region, said the lack of communication was but one of the many problems faced during all immunization programs.

"We also have the problems of having each school distribut use different forms and recording systems and the county using still another set of records," Gibson said.

"This makes record-keeping almost impossible and limits any attempt at accurate follow-up efforts."

The committee members praised the school nurses for doing almost superhuman work in setting up clinics on short notice and immunizing hundreds of students within a few days.

The Volunteers in Action have chosen as their first goal the designing of programs which will involve all types of community resources to help organize, staff and publicize ongoing immunization programs in the community.

The committee will meet on July 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the West Covina Library.

Persons interested in the program are invited to call Miss Mary Lou Ginther, coordinator of volunteers for the region health services, at (213) 338-8461.

Scheib is indicted on munitions charge

Phillip Earl Scheib Jr., son of a wealthy California automobile painter, has been indicted in the stockpiling of more than five tons of illegal munitions in the Mojave Desert.

The indictment was returned by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury only five days after Donald Wiggins, 41-year-old Pomona foundry operator, pleaded guilty to one count of stockpiling weapons in the Antelope Valley near Lancaster.

(After Wiggins was arrested last December at his home in Ontario, police said they were seeking another man who apparently was the financier for more than 10 tons of arms unearthed during a two-week period in the Antelope Valley, Ontario and Wrightwood. The financier was not found.)

Scheib, 42, who was described by sources as well-to-do, has been linked frequently to paramilitary organizations. His arrest climaxed a six-month investigation of the seized weapons by weapons experts, sheriff's deputies said.

Scheib was arrested Thursday in Clarkstown, Wash., one day after he was named in a secret indictment released by the Grand Jury.

The indictment charges him with seven felony counts — two of possessing a machine gun and one each of possessing grenades, launching devices, a satchel charge, a silencer and explosives with intent to injure.

A mixture of clergyman and Las Vegas show critic

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Being a critic in the "Entertainment Capital of the World" may not sound compatible with the duties of a clergyman. But to the Rev. Charles Supin, the job is a serious one and it gives witness to one of his most profound beliefs.

Father Supin, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church here, hits the showrooms every week, then tells the people what he thinks.

One of his strongest Christian beliefs is that God put us on earth to create, and that a person must constantly create and expand.

"Personally, I have to expand all the time. I always have projects going. I'm absorbing and constantly trying to do things," said the Brooklyn native and former Marine.

"As a Christian, I'm always dazzled by God's creation, and entertainers are in the business of giving witness to this miracle," Supin said of his frequent trips to the hotels along the famed Las Vegas "Strip."

"Show business involves the relationship between people and emotions," he explained. "It's an art form which shows what creation is all about or what it could be all about."

In addition to his clerical duties with his fast-growing parish, Supin writes weekly entertainment critique columns for a daily Las Vegas newspaper and a weekly magazine, serves as arts editor for a local television station and is working on a syndicated radio program featuring the scores of celebrities who visit this gaming spa on a daily basis.

But Supin, 44, is quick to point out that he is not a chaplain to the stars, nor does he want to be.

"I still as a critic or a writer stay aloof as much as possible from the entertainers," Supin explained. "I'm not buddy-buddy with entertainers."

"The last thing I would want is to have my wall covered with pictures of me standing with this guy and that one ... it's not my thing," Supin said.

Supin arrived here about three years ago, coming from New York, where he had served as the rector of a well-to-do parish on Long Island and had tasted the fruits of the "good life."

Supin takes his writing very seriously and has become one of the most respected critics here because of his honesty. However, Supin is the rector of his church first, and the church itself stands as an example of his seemingly unending need to accomplish.

All Saints had about 70 families in its membership when Supin arrived and it was struggling financially. Since then, the church has tripled its membership and is now on sound financial ground.

HENRI ELLA SMITH

Family day to be observed

New Gethsemane Church of God in Christ, Pomona, will observe Annual Family Day Sunday during 11 a.m. services.

The honored family will be the Smith Family of Pomona. Mrs. Henri Ella Smith, who is a member of that family, is hosting their annual family reunion. Seventy-four family members are expected to be in these worship services.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Jesse Thompson of Tulsa, Okla. He is the brother-in-law of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Smith has been an ardent worker in the community for several years. She is the mother of 12 children and 18 grand children.

DOUBLE DUTY — Rev. Charles Supin, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church in Las Vegas, is a frequent spectator in the showrooms on the famed "Strip."

Backyard Bible clubs for kids

Faith Missionary Church, Pomona, is sponsoring a 10-week summer series of backyard Bible Clubs in the Pomona area.

The clubs are open to elementary school children. Programs will feature stories, singing, and prizes. Later in the summer, parent nights will be held.

The clubs are taught by Miss Naomi Fate, a graduate of Azusa Pacific College and a student at Rosemead Graduate School of Psychology. She is a member of Faith Church.

Further information may be obtained by calling the church at 624-9113.

Philadelphia Street United Methodist Church, Pomona, will have its Annual Ice Cream Social on Friday in the social hall.

The entertainment begins at 6:30 p.m. with chalk-talk artist Wilson Baden. Homemade ice cream, cake and pie will be served from 7 to 8:30. For more information call 627-3124.

Ontario First Baptist

The Towler Family Ministries will present a radio rally and musicale tonight at 7:30 at the First Baptist Church, Ontario.

Presenting testimony both in song and praise with the Towler Family and the New Day Team are the Calvary Singers, The People, The Sounds of Life Quartet and the Emmas Road Quartet. A free will offering will be taken.

Also, The Royal Rangers from the First Assembly of God in Pomona will present the Christian and American flags to celebrate Independence Day.

Pomona First Lutheran

At the 9 a.m. service Sunday, First Lutheran Church, Pomona, will observe the Sacrament of Holy Communion, and Mrs. Terry Jenkins, wife of assistant pastor Bruce Jenkins, will play a violin offertory, accompanied by Mrs. James Cordes.

Following the service, the congregation will attend a coffee hour with members of First Christian Church in the Fellowship Hall.

Summer program for Methodists

Claremont United Methodist Church Sunday is launching a summer program of a single worship service at 9:15 a.m. to replace the duplicate services held the remainder of the year.

The sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered by the Rev. James W. Dallas, senior minister, assisted by Dr. G. Merrill Lenox, minister of administration. A summer volunteer choir will sing at the worship service. Wendy Losh will be at the organ.

The summer plan calls for children's attendance at the opening portion of the worship service. Lois C. Seifert will present a special children's message.

Following the service, from 10:10 to 11:10 a.m., there will be an intergenerational activity in which children will participate with their parents. David Pearce, social worker for Pomona Valley Community Hospital, will lead a group of adults and youth on the subject "Facing the Crisis of Death."

Valley man to join world tour

Kevin Rillman, member of St. Paul's Congregational Church, Claremont, has been selected to participate in "Old South Odyssey," a group tour of 10 men and 10 women of college age, half from the west coast and half from the east coast of the United States.

The trip is sponsored by Old South Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn. and the University of Hartford. It will begin Wednesday Aug. 22.

The group will study the cultures and peoples of many countries.

Dr. Henry David Gray, former pastor of "Old South" and now a California resident is leader of the trip.

Rullman, son of Mrs. Sherry Rullman, is a June Claremont High School graduate who will be attending Cal Poly Pomona this fall.

Sugar used

The average American consumes 125 pounds of sugar yearly, according to the Diet Workshop. This compares with 109 pounds of beef.

Bethany Baptist Church, Montclair, will present a full concert of patriotic music in the Sunday worship service at 11 a.m.

"Sage Americana" features orchestrated choir and ensemble numbers including, "This Land is Your Land," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," an Armed Forces medley and "God Bless America."

The Boy Scout Troop of Bethany will present the colors. The sanctuary choir and the New Creation children's ensemble will be featured, as well as soloists and the Bethany orchestra. Paul E. Kealy, minister of music at Bethany, will conduct this Fourth of July musical celebration.

Northminster Presbyterian

Summertime brings two special Sunday programs to Northminster Presbyterian Church in Diamond Bar.

These two days are called "Summer Serendipity."

On July 10, a family picnic lunch will be held after church, followed by a gospel message by Gail Wenos, Ventriloquist.

On July 17, a potluck will be held after church, followed by a talent show, directed by Mrs. Fay Mauck.

Those with talent may call Mrs. Mauck by July 10 to get on the program. Call the church office at 595-4715, or stop in after church for details.

REV. ERNEST MYERS

Baptists appoint pastor

First Southern Baptist Church of Pomona has named the Rev. Ernest Myers Jr. of Louisville, Ky., as its new pastor.

A recent master of divinity graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Mr. Myers is coming from a pastorate in Breckinridge County, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Myers will begin living in the community the second week of July. Mrs. Myers is also a spring graduate of the Southern Baptist Seminary with the master of religious education degree.

The church has invited the community to join in welcoming Mr. Myers Sunday, July 17, at the morning worship services at 11.

Man, 96, dies in house fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 96-year-old man asleep in his upstairs bedroom died as a fire destroyed his home, said firemen. Emerterio Graciano was not burned, but probably was asphyxiated, officials said Thursday. The fire was accidentally set by teen-agers playing with matches under the wood-frame house.

and jump ropes will be among items used for teaching skills in tumbling, balance, accuracy throwing, kicking, strength and eye-hand coordination.

Classes are held Monday through Friday at the Montclair High School north gym from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. and from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Children wishing to sign up can go directly to the class site at one of these times.

Jean Heald and Michael Dickson are instructors for the class. Both have been athletic coaches at Montclair High.

The department will also sponsor a five-week tennis instruction session for adults, beginning Tuesday. Classes will be held at the Montclair High tennis courts from 6 to 8 p.m. with beginning students on Mondays and Wednesdays and intermediate students on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Registration will be taken at the first meeting.

Tim Castle will teach the beginners and Pattie Stephens will instruct the intermediate students. The classes are offered in cooperation with Chaffey College Community Services and are free.

Airport budget includes OIA improvements

The Board of Airport Commissioners has approved a budget of $139,030,187 for the Los Angeles Department of Airports' 1977-78 fiscal year, including nearly a million dollars for capital improvements at Ontario International Airport.

The newly adopted budget reflects a 10.6 per cent increase in operating revenues and 2.7 per cent increase in administrative and operating expenses. It also includes a proposed $40 million revenue bond issue to continue the department's capital improvement program at Los Angeles International, Ontario International and Van Nuys airports.

The anticipated revenues of the department have been estimated at $62,587,702, up 10.6 per cent due mainly to increases in concession revenues, building and land rentals. The increases are sufficient to provide the required 1.25 coverage on the department's current bond debt service of $24,114,484, General Manager Clifton A. Moore said.

Also budgeted is $7,259,152 earmarked to meet bond obligations for the following fiscal year and a $3,410,935 for redemption of the 1956 bond principal and interest, as required by city charter.

Nine million dollars in capital improvements are allocated in the budget with Los Angeles International receiving $3,096,000; Ontario International, $929,800; and Van Nuys, $399,000. This account also includes $1.8 million to complete projects now in process and $2.8 million for projects in the planning stage.

Administrative and operating expenses total $35,183,030, up 2.7 per cent from the 1976-77 fiscal year. Contributing to the increase are new programs, increased cost for property taxes and utilities, bus operations and general inflationary trends.

Major budgeted expenses are salaries, $16,830,800; materials, supplies and services, $14,696,230 plus $3.2 million for services provided by other city departments. Moore pointed out that the amount budgeted for salaries does not include cost of living increases still to be negotiated.

As required by city charter, $10 million was appropriated for maintenance and operation reserve. The department again set aside $1 million for repayment to the city treasury for the taxpayers' initial investment of $14.8 million in Los Angeles International. Payments will continue until remaining balance of $4.5 million is cleared.

'Preying' is mantis' best

WASHINGTON (AP) — The praying mantis would be better named a preying mantis, says National Geographic, referring to the insect's predatory habits.

Although it is harmless to humans, an adult mantis gobbles up flies, boll weevils, locusts, crickets, wasps, beetles, and grasshoppers. In addition the female often devours the male after mating, says Geographic.

Because of its dining habits, it has gained a new popularity among gardeners as nature's answer to pesticides. While stalking its victims, the insect waits patiently with its long forelegs raised, ready to strike. This "prayerful" posture gave it its name.

Claremont council approves funds for chamber

The Claremont City Council has approved an agreement for 1977-78 which would give to the Claremont Chamber and Convention Bureau a total of $44,500 to carry out city-associated activities.

The city will pay the chamber $7,500, up from $7,000 in 1976-77, for encouraging and assisting businesses and industries to expand and to seek out industrial and commercial enterprises to locate in the city.

The city has agreed to increase its payment to the convention bureau from $31,000 to $37,000 to attract such convention groups and visitors as it feels are beneficial to the community.

The agreement, patterned after the 1976-77 city-chamber pact, includes a bonus of $5,000 if the transient occupancy tax receipts necessary for the chamber to achieve the bonus reach $145,000.

The bonus of $3,000 in 1976-77 was based on transient occupancy tax receipts of $120,000.

Chamber manager Phil Bauman in a council sub-committee meeting earlier had favored an $145,000 receipt figure instead of $155,000 and a $6,000 bonus because "it will be difficult to achieve the $155,000 total."

Bauman told the council Tuesday night that Griswold's has been operating at a 90 per cent or above occupancy rate, and that other motels in the city are doing well.

"We would rather aim at an obtainable goal and reach it," Bauman said. The agreement explains that the duties of the chamber have been expanded to include assistance in the implementation of village market study recommendations by Owen Menard.

The chamber also has been asked to provide the city with a program of work implementing objectives outlined in the agreement.

Bauman has reported that during the past fiscal year, 212 meetings, conferences, conventions and seminars attracted 6,516 delegates who spent 63,000 convention days in Claremont and left more than $4 million there.

He explained that the conventioners generated sales tax revenue of $151,000 of which Claremont received $25,000. He said the transient occupant tax amounted to $138,000.

ROY FOUNTAIN

Lions Club president installed

Roy Fountain, comptroller at Casa Colina Hospital, Pomona, has been installed 1977-78 president of Pomona Breakfast Lions Club.

Past District Gov. Ralph Shannon conducted the ceremony. The program included an address and the presentation of awards by retiring president Matt Reeves.

Other officers installed with Fountain are vice presidents Art Escovedo and Pete Hughes, secretary Murray Hamburg, treasurer Tom Ault, tail twisters Don Keepers and Larry Toothaker, Lion tamers Bob Hall and Dick Sanders, chaplain Vince Cicero, and directors Rafe Marhefka, Sal Ramirez, Gary Ingels, Sheldon Nicholas and Ron Daluz. Bob Hall is bulletin editor.

Fountain has been a club member eight years. He and his wife Vivian live in Claremont.

Claremont cab fares to go up

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Residents using Paul's Yellow Cab Co. in Claremont will begin paying about 80 cents more for an average ride beginning Sept. 1.

The Claremont City Council heard cab firm owner Gene R. Stalians explain how increased costs in public liability insurance, inflation and other expenses are cutting into profits.

The council unanimously approved the rate increase of $1.60 for the first eighth of a mile, up 80 cents from the present rate.

The remaining meter rate structure will remain the same. Stalians said that the rate increase is the lowest necessary to meet rising insurance costs and restore a profit. He explained that the 80-cent increase per trip will produce about a 19 per cent rate increase for the average trip of 3.2 miles.

Stalians recalled that about 37 cab companies have gone out of business in California over the past couple years, and that 80 per cent of the cab businesses have gone bankrupt since last December.

Yellow Cab must now go to seven other cities in Los Angeles County to obtain approval for the rate increase.

Yellow Cab has been running a successful dial-a-ride taxi service in Claremont since February 1975.

Company pays $40,000 fine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Triple C Products of Chicago has agreed to pay $40,000 in civil fines and to avoid shortweighting its coffee, ending a case filed by Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp.

The company, which provides private label coffee for various supermarket chains, was charged with short-weighting each of its 1-and 2-pound cans by one-eighth of an ounce.

The history of Chino Valley will be presented at Chino Branch Library Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. by Gerald Litel, a director of the San Bernardino County Museum Association.

Litel is a past president of the Chino Valley Historical Society and has served as resident caretaker at Yorba Slaughter Adobe.

On July 19, another program on Chino history will be presented at the library.

Evaluations at MSAC center

Reading help offered

Reading evaluations are being given in the Mt. San Antonio College Learning Assistance Center for all students who wish to know their reading strengths and areas in need for improvement.

No appointments are necessary for the free evaluations. Students may drop in to the center any time during regular day and evening class hours. Center personnel will discuss the results of the evaluation with each student, and if necessary, develop a program to increase comprehension, vocabulary and speed.

The center also has specialized classes in basic reading, writing and spelling to help students gain more proficiency in the tools of learning. Individualized attention is given each student.

Special adult education classes are also available to parents who want to help their children learn to read better, and for students who want to learn speed reading. A tutoring program for adults interested in improving their reading and mathematics abilities will also be offered all summer.

Further information about specific classes and services may be obtained by calling the Learning Assistance Center, 598-2811, ext. 347. All services are free, but some classes do have limited enrollment to assure maximum attention to individual problems.

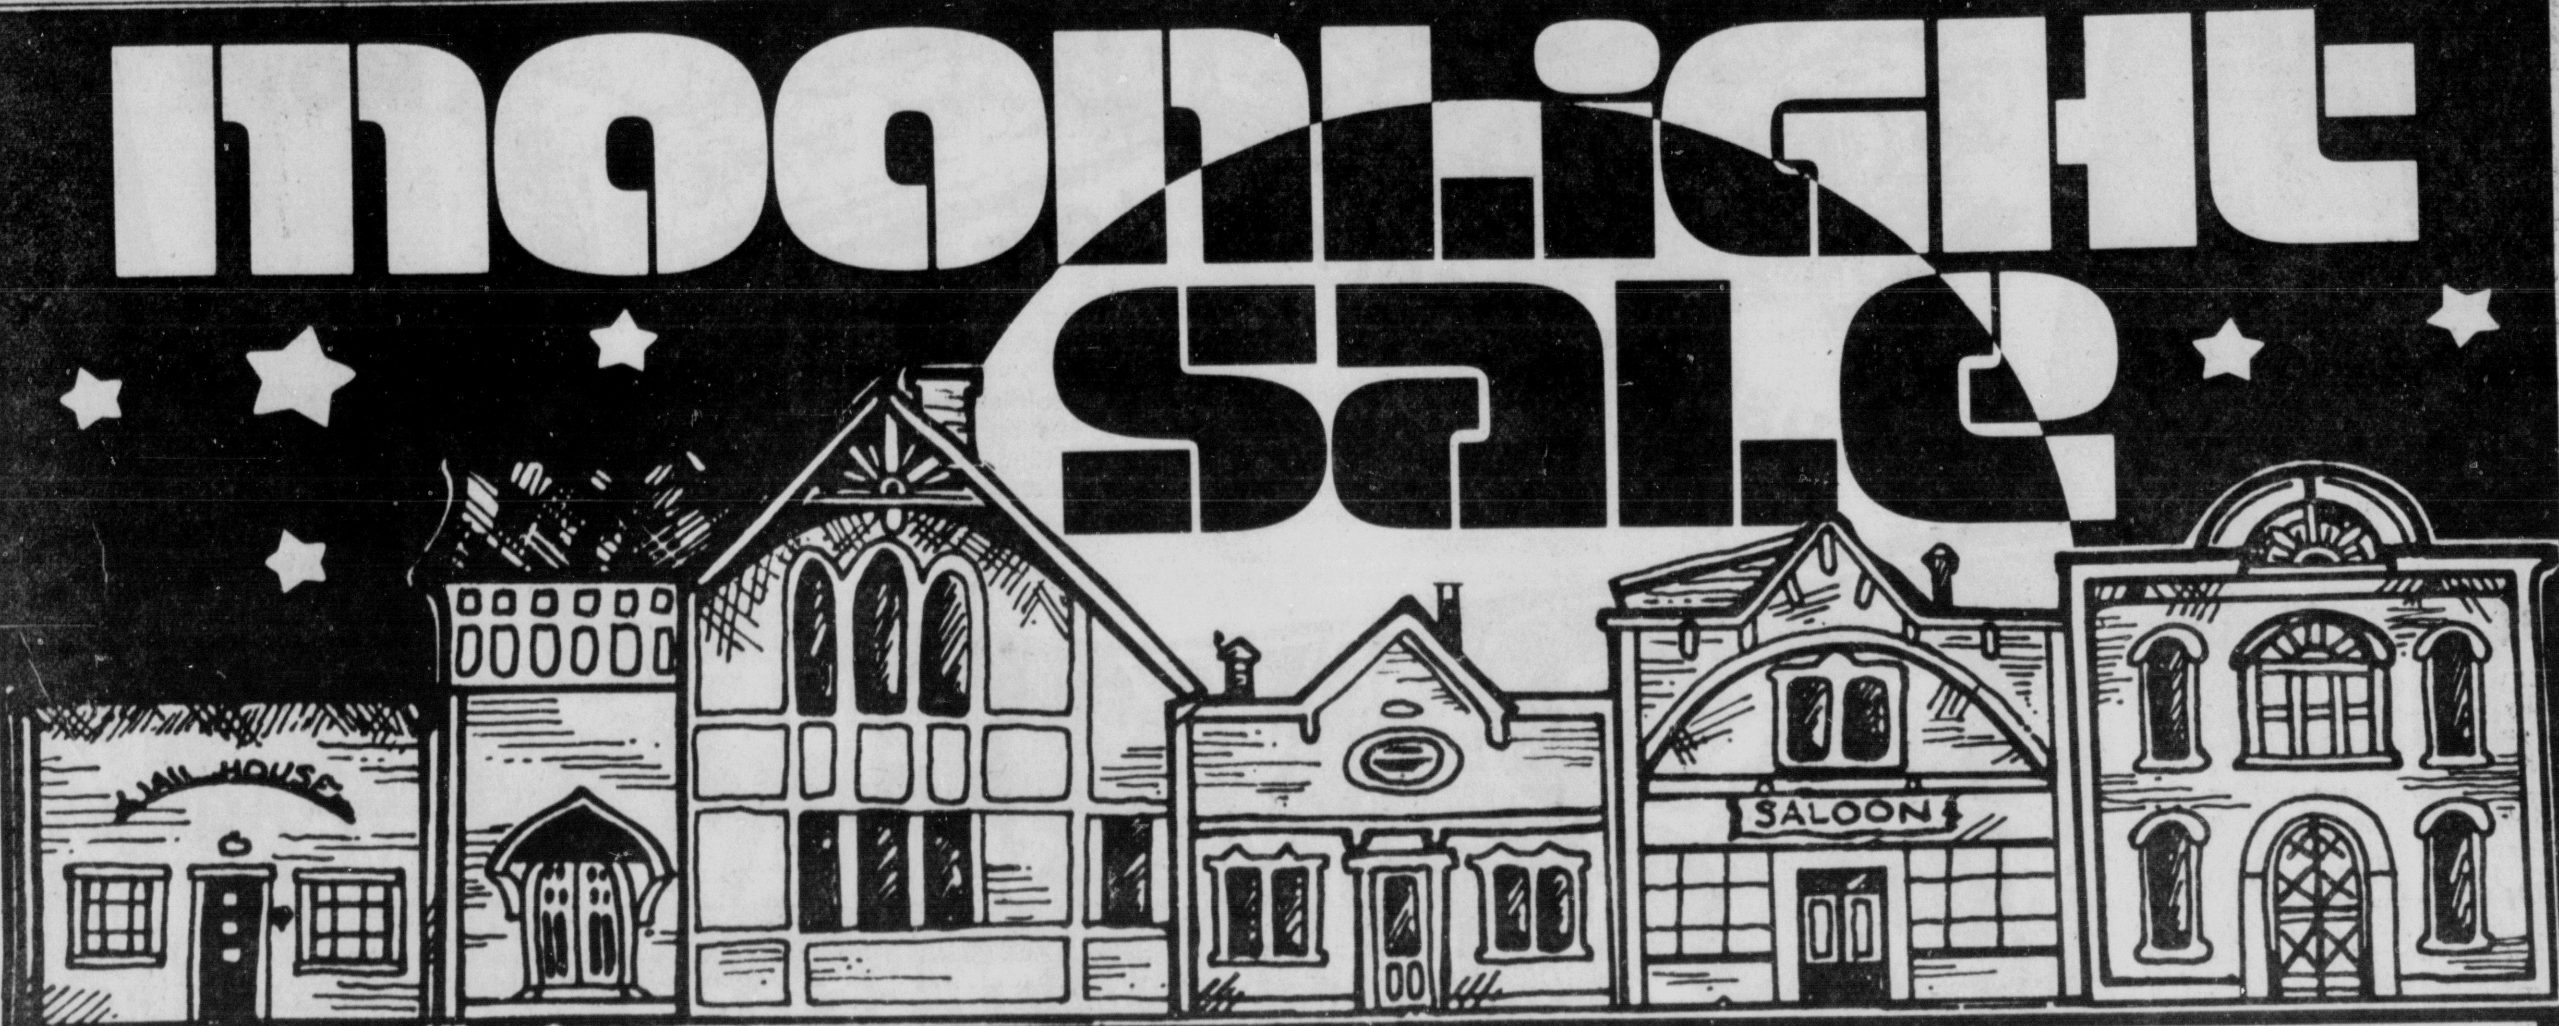

Gerardi hires aide to Lapp

Lee Trueblood, former secretary to former Chino schools Supt. Royce Lapp, has been hired as secretary for Chino City Manager John Gerardi.

Mrs. Trueblood took over her new position last week. She served as Lapp's secretary for eight years and also provided secretarial assistance for the Board of Education.

Vida gives Halos 'Blues'

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — The lifeless Angels might as well not show up Tuesday night when they face lefthander Vida Blue for the second time in five nights.

Blue owns the Angels at Anaheim Stadium and it might be wise for the Halos to come up with the big money to satisfy Charles O. Finley just to get him out of Oakland.

It was the same old story for the Angels Friday night as Blue pitched a five-hit shutout to blank the Halos, 2-0, for his 12th consecutive victory at the Big A.

Because the current series between the Angels rivals stretches for five games, the Angels will have the honor of facing Blue again Tuesday night in the home-stand finale.

Asked if there is anything special he likes about Anaheim Stadium, Blue just replied, "It just works out that way. The mound here is pretty nice and I like the slope here."

Friday's shutout win was only Blue's sixth triumph to go with nine defeats this season.

"I was just pitching bad," Blue explained. "I was behind the batters a lot. But I have been working harder and harder. I was able to get the breaking ball over tonight for strikes."

Blue's first question pertained to his many feuds with owner Finley. The lefthander simply said, "I don't even want to talk about that. Just stick to my pitching tonight and leave that other stuff alone."

Bobby Winkles, the latest manager in the Oakland hot seat, praised his lefthanded ace.

"He pitched a great game," Winkles said. "He has been like this in his last five starts and his mental outlook has been super."

Blue would have even an easier game if it wasn't for second baseman Marty Perez, who did his best to keep the Angels in the game with a pair of errors.

Perez' first miscue came when Gil Flores, the Angels' leadoff batter, hit a grounder which went through the second sacker. With one out, Bobby Bonds drew a walk but Blue got out of the jam by retiring Don Baylor and Dave Chalk.

In the fifth after Mario Guerrero singled, rookie Thad Bosley hit a perfect double play ball back to Blue but Perez couldn't handle the play at second as Guerrero was safe to put runners on first and second with no outs.

But Terry Humphrey, who was asked to hunt the runners over, popped up the pitch for an easy out as the crowd of 13,496 booed. Blue then got Flores to bounce into a double play.

Again, the failure to execute proved costly to the Angels.

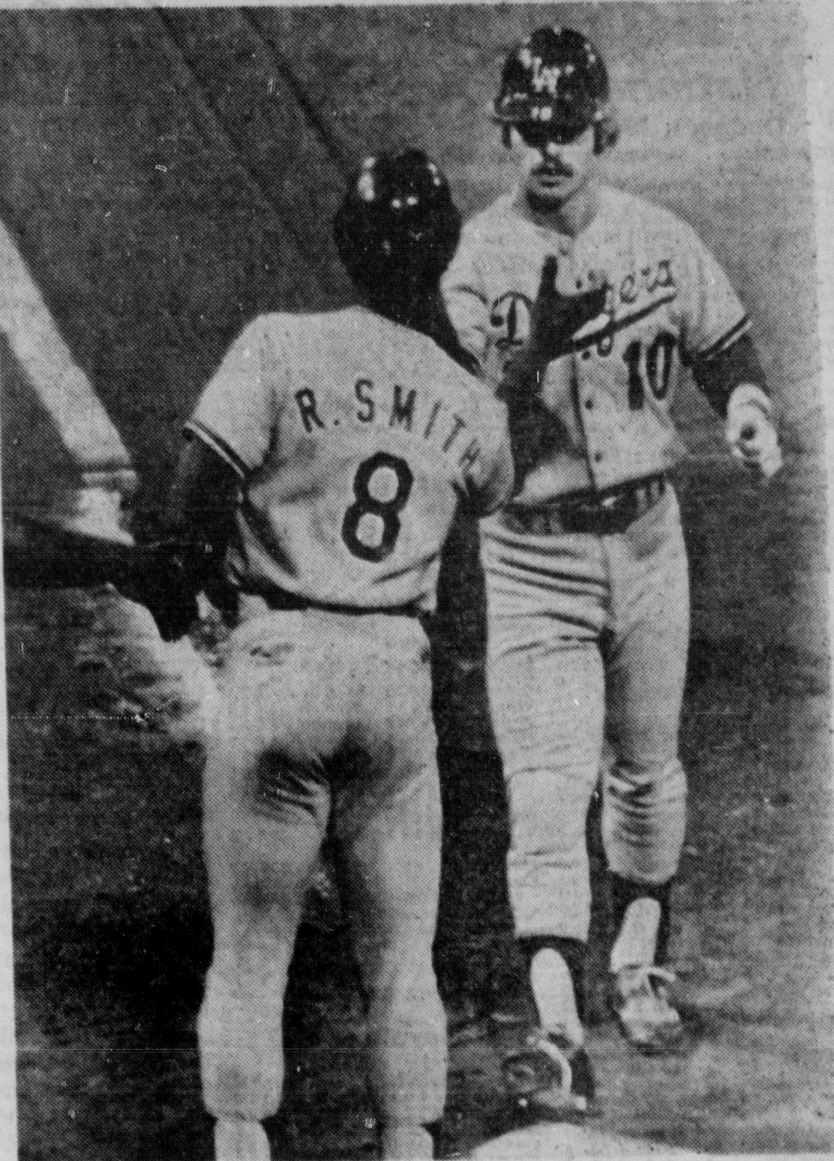

Ken Brett allowed nine hits through the first five innings but got it cheaply enough with only two Oakland runs.

The A's got on the scoreboard in the third when Perez walked, Cal Poly product Wayne Gross singled to right and Manny Sanguillen singled up the middle.

Tony Armas opened the fourth by greeting Brett with a home run over the leftfield fence for his seventh of the season.

ANGEL ANGLES — The series continues tonight with a late 8:30 p.m. start because of the possibility of national television which never developed. Gary Ross (2-4) is slated to go against Doc Medich (5-4).

Sunday afternoon's (1 p.m.) probables are Frank Tanana (11-5) vs. Mike Norris (2-4). Nolan Ryan (10-7) is slated to go against Rick Langford (6-6) at 6 p.m. Monday before the big fireworks show.

Dodgers rally to down Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Cey's 17th home run, the highlight of a five-run fifth inning, sent Los Angeles ahead and the Dodgers went on to beat the San Francisco Giants 10-5 Friday night.

Bill Madlock connected for two home runs off the Dodgers' Doug Rau, 8-1, including a three-run drive in the third for the game's first runs. Madlock's second homer came in the sixth with the bases empty.

Reggie Smith had four hits for the Dodgers, while Cey and Steve Yeager each drove in three runs. Yeager, who had a triple and double, left the game after being struck by a foul tip in the sixth.

The Dodgers got their first two runs off San Francisco starter Charlie Williams, 3-2, in the fourth on a double by Yeager and a triple by Davey Lopes. Smith opened the fifth with an infield single and Cey followed with his homer deep into the left field seats.

The other big blow in the fifth was Yeager's two-run triple. Steve Garvey hit his 21st homer of the season, equaling his career high for a season, accounting for two of the Dodgers' three runs in the ninth.

In the Giants' third, Marc Hill opened with a single, was sacrificed to second by Williams and went to third on a single by Rob Andrews. Madlock hit his eighth homer of the season, a line drive just inside the left field foul pole, after Vic Harris struck out.

The Los Angeles comeback began with Dusty Baker's oneout single in the fourth. He continued to second when right fielder Jack Clark bobbled his hit and scored on Yeager's double to left center. After Rau fled out, Lopes tripled home the second run.

Madlock's second homer of the game opened the Giants' sixth. Clark followed with a single, Willie McCovey walked, the runners advanced on a groundout by Randy Elliott and Gary Thomasson's sacrifice fly scored Clark to make the score 7-5.

UCLA head job offered to Crum

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — University of Louisville basketball Coach Denny Crum has been offered the top job at UCLA to succeed Gene Bartow, sources reported here Friday, but UCLA athletic director J.D.

Morgan would not confirm the report.

Sportscaster Van Vance of WHAS here quoted "a source close to the U of L coach" as saying Crum has the job if he wants it.

"I get the same information from sources in the Los Angeles area," the Louisville Courier-Journal reported in its Saturday morning editions.

"I have been told that UCLA athletic director J.D. Morgan asked his U of L counterpart Dave Hart for permission to talk with Crum last week at a convention," the newspaper reported.

The report also said Crum spent "a couple of days in Los Angeles this week, talking to Morgan and a steering committee."

The Courier-Journal quotes "a newspaper colleague in Long Beach" as saying Crum wants "a lot more than Bartow got in salary and fringe benefits." And it said "Crum supposedly has until Tuesday to make up his mind."

"I have talked to Crum in Los Angeles. He was here, but he's not here now, to the best of my knowledge. I have no comment as to my talks with Denny," Morgan said.

"He's not the only one I've talked to about the coaching job. I've talked to several people. I have no comment as to when a new coach will be named," Morgan added.

Injury sidelines Grich for year

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels said Friday that infielder Bobby Grich, one of the free agents the Angels signed last winter, is suffering from a herniated lumbar disc that will require surgery and will probably keep him out of baseball the rest of this season.

Grich will undergo back surgery early next week. The Angels said they didn't know when he could play again but it is not likely he will return this year.

Grich played out his option in 1976 with Baltimore, where he played second base, and was signed to a five-year contract with California at an estimated total salary of $1.5 million. The Angels used him as their shortstop until the back ailment forced him out of action.

Grich originally injured his back in spring training.

He was batting .243 with the Angels and had seven home runs and 23 RBI.

Seattle Slew seeks triumph despite rivals, high weight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — He's been given protection worthy of the President of the United States since arriving in California, yet Seattle Slew is expected to virtually hide from his six-horse opposition Sunday in the $316,400 Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park.

The undefeated winner of the Triple Crown breaks from the No. 2 gate at Hollywood Park as the odds-on favorite to win the 1 1/4-mile test of 3-year-olds.

Jean Cruget, the French jockey who has ridden Seattle Slew throughout his career, will be in the irons again in this West Coast debut for the colt who won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

This time, the champion must carry a high weight of 126 pounds, giving up at least six to each of his six rivals, none of whom is given much chance of pulling an upset.

If you would pick out one with the best opportunity, it would be J. O. Tobin, the 2-year-old champion of England in 1976 who returned to campaign in the United States as a 3-year-old.

J. O. Tobin has won five of eight starts but was only fifth to Seattle Slew in the Preakness.

That challenger, with Bill Shoemaker riding, gets in with a 120-pound impost. So does Elmendorf Farm's Text with Darrel McHargue riding.

In post position order, the field has Affiliate, 114, Seattle Slew, 126, Text, 120, J. O. Tobin, 120, Mr. Red Wing, 114, White Sprite, 114, and Minnesota Gus, 114.

A crowd of 65,000, largest of the meeting, is expected to turn out to watch the race and see the Triple Crown winner despite the fact the competition shapes up as most one-sided.

Three uniformed officers guard the Seattle Slew stall and others are also on duty to make sure visitors don't get that far. But there are thousands watching when he works out.

The $194,900 first prize would boost Seattle Slew's earnings to $912,620 and there are handsome rewards for the colts finishing from second to fifth.

The runnerup will collect $60,000, third $36,000, fourth $18,000 and fifth $7,500.

Poly inks Fairman

Ricky Fairman, Pomona High's highly-regarded prep track star, has signed a national letter of intent with Cal Poly Pomona, according to Bronco track coach Jim George.

Fairman competed on the Red Devil football team in addition to throwing the shot, discus and javelin for the track squad. The senior was the San Antonio League champion in the shot put with a top throw of 60-2 with a 12-pound shot.

George is hoping that Fairman will team with another top prep signer, Kevin Stone of Perris High, to further strengthen next year's Poly track team.

Stone was the CIF IA champion in the 120 high hurdles and also placed third in the Masters meet in the same event.

Connors vs. Borg today

Wade delights British

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — After 14 years of trying, and losing to inferior opponents and her own nerves, a new-look Virginia Wade finally has won the Wimbledon singles crown in front of her queen and her own home crowd.

With a new hairstyle and a new relaxed temperament, she beat Betty Stove of The Netherlands 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 Friday to add the Wimbledon title to the ones she already has won in the U.S., Italian and Australian opens.

Jimmy Connors, the 1974 Wimbledon champion, was to meet defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden today in the men's final.

The Wimbledon crowd has called her "Ginny" since, as a lithe 17-year-old, her hair in a pony tail, she first appeared at Wimbledon in 1964, the year Maria Bueno won the third of her titles.

For the past 10 years she's been in the seedings. But only once before has she reached the semifinals—never the finals.

Miss Wade never despaired of reaching the heights. "I managed to get a grip on my temperament a year ago," she said. "Billie Jean King was a help in that. She told me one has to prepare for Wimbledon a full year ahead. Then I got Jerry Teeguarden to coach me, and he helped a tremendous amount psychologically."

"This year, I knew it was my tournament. I'm more secure now than I've ever been. I've changed and I felt this week I had more guts than anyone."

This year, Miss Wade walked out onto an empty center court to "meditate" before the crowd arrived.

"It is so important to absorb the atmosphere," she said. "You can walk through that door and it can seem the most unfamiliar place in the world, no matter how many times you have played there."

Miss Wade dispelled any doubts in the semifinal, when she beat Chris Evert, the defending champion. It was a three-setter, and the old Virginia would probably have faded after dropping a set to the champion. But she went on to win, smiling to herself even when she made poor shots.

And in the final against Miss Stove, she fought back tenaciously after losing the first set and standing level 3-3 in the second.

It was Miss Stove, a hefty 6-foot-1 with a volley to match her height, who faded instead of Miss Wade.

The match started badly for Miss Wade but well for Miss Stove, the first girl from The Netherlands ever to reach a singles final here. Miss Stove, plagued by a series of nine double faults in the match, was picking up points by loping to the net and volleying well.

It brought her the first set at 6-4 as Miss Wade could not pass her at the net or draw her back with lobs.

But midway through the second set, the pattern changed. Miss Stove had just cancelled out an earlier Wade service break by breaking back in the fifth game to make it 2-3 and then 3-3. Miss Wade held for 43, then suddenly got another break, to 15, in the eighth game, and held service for the set.

Scouting victory, she streaked off to a 3-0 lead in the final set with a couple of breaks.

Miss Stove fought hard to win the third game, but a tragic double fault—her ninth—gave it to Miss Wade.

That game and the next went to deuce. The fifth game looked like it was going Miss Wade's way when she reeled off a passing forehand and a cross-court return of service, plus a finely-judged lob, to get within sight of another break. But Miss Stove won the next five points for the game, and trailed 1-4.

That was the Dutch woman's last game, and in the final two she picked up only a couple of points.

Miss Wade held service to love, with Miss Stove relapsing into some wild volleying, for 51. And Miss Stove, serving to save the match, dumped two more volleys in the seventh. The second of those, netted on Miss Wade's return and the forecourt empty, gave Miss Wade match point. Miss Stove saved that with a cross-court backhand but once again netted a volley to give Miss Wade the match and the crowd their biggest thrill since Ann Jones last brought the title home in 1969.

"I knew the things I had to do, but sometimes I didn't do them," said Miss Stove. "Sometimes my brain acts ahead of my arm."

But, she added: "She (Miss Wade) won the last point. She deserved that and the glory of it in front of her home crowd—and I just had to be the bridesmaid."

MIDFIELD BATTLE

Two of soccer's all-time greats, Pele of the New York Cosmos and George Best of the L.A. Aztecs battle at midfield in a recent NASL game. The two will be appearing at the Los Angeles Coliseum today as Aztecs will host the Cosmos beginning at 2 p.m.

Aztecs stage showdown

LOS ANGELES — The two leading offensive teams in the North American Soccer League square off at 2 p.m. today in the Coliseum when the Aztecs host the Eastern Division champion Toronto Metros Monday at the Coliseum.

The Aztecs complete a holiday weekend by meeting the defending champion Toronto Metros Monday at the Coliseum.

Both games will be broadcast live on radio stations KGIL (1260) and KFOX (1280) with Gil Stratton calling the action. Game time is 2 p.m. for each game.

Today's game will feature two former Most Valuable Player selections of the NASL, both of whom are currently leading the league in scoring.

Pele, the most legendary figure in the sport of soccer, has thrived on recent competition with the Aztecs scoring five goals in two games, including a hat trick in the most recent 5-2 Cosmos win. The 1976 MVP of the league, Pele will be making his last appearance, as a player, in Los Angeles.

The Aztecs' Steve David, league MVP in 1975 when he was also the leading scorer, has kept his scoring streak alive through eight games, and continues to lead the NASL with 16 goals and 34 points.

The Cosmos have won six of their last seven outings, having been rejuvenated by the arrival of Franz Beckenbauer, the recently honored European Player of the Year. This was the second time he has been so honored, and he was captain of West Germany's 1974 World Cup Champions. Beckenbauer has pulled the Cosmos defensive unit together, allowing only 8 goals in their last seven games.

For their second game in three days, the Aztecs face the NASL's defending champion, Toronto Metros. The Metros come into the Coliseum with much the same lineup which pulled major upsets on the way to winning the 1976 title.

La Verne Post 330 scored all the runs it needed in the first inning and went on to trounce host Upland 9-1 in opening round play of the

Upland American Legion

Tourney.

In other first round action Friday night at

Upland's Memorial Park,

Ontario collected only two hits in losing to West

Covina 4-2.

Today's games

UPLAND LEGION TOURNEY

Friday's results

West Covina 4, Ontario 2

La Verne 9, Upland 1

Hartzer 2B

Opening round

Kowland vs. Montclair, Memorial

Park, 10 a.m.

Arcadia vs. Redlands 650 at Memorial Park, 12:30 p.m.

Claremont vs. Tri-City at Chaffey

College, 10 a.m.

Chino vs. Rialto at Chaffey College,

High, 10:30 a.m.

Fontana vs. Hacienda Heights at Upland High, 12:30 p.m.

La Verne wasted no time in scoring five first-inning runs which were plenty for starting pitcher Dave

Drury and reliever (in the fourth inning) Doug Paul to work with.

The top three hitters in the La Verne lineup Steve

Campbell, Paul and Ralph

Ortega respectively

singled to load the bases.

Drury hit into a force play at second for the first run and Bill Bumstead followed with a single for another tally.

After a walk Dave Loera

singled home a run and

Pete Fox drove home two with a double to left center.

Upland came back with its only run of the evening on back-to-back doubles by

Randy Gordon and Jim

Rodi.

La Verne scored three more times in the fourth inning on a fielders choice, and Loera's two-run single.

Drury singled in the seventh inning to knock home Ortega with the final run to put icing on the Post 330 victory cake.

With the exception of the second inning, Upland only advanced runners to second base three times and could not reach third.

Drury in his three complete innings on the mound struck out four, gave up two hits, and walked none.

Paul mopped up with two strike outs and yielded a harmless single.

Upland starting pitcher

Jeff Stewart was racked up for 10 hits and eight runs in four innings of action.

Ontario's only bright spot and runs came in the first inning on John Newman's two-run homer to left field.

Action will resume today

at Memorial Park, Upland

High and Chaffey College.

Games are set to get under way at 10 a.m.

Pro basketball camp opens

LOS ANGELES — The Southern California Pro Basketball Summer League will host professional basketball's largest free-agent camp beginning this Sunday afternoon at Cal State Los Angeles.

Over 160 hopefuls, including such past players as LaRue Martin, Talvin Skinner, and Rudy Hackett, will compete for a roster spot for the upcoming Southern California Pro Basketball Summer League, which will begin play Friday evening, July 8, at Cal State Los Angeles.

The camp will last five days beginning Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. with orientation and team placement. The camp will run through Thursday evening, July 7. Starting Monday, all workouts will begin at 9 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The order of tryouts will find the 160 players divided over 16 teams with each team playing four games each day and each player performing for 24 minutes. The camp judging will be done by coaches and general managers of the NBA and European coaches, who hope to find a gem or two to play overseas. A sample of judges include Ed Badger of Chicago, Jerry Colangelo of Phoenix, Bob Hopkins of Seattle, and Jack Ramsey of Portland.

Q • "WHO WAS MARCO POLO?"

TEMPEST DANNISON
CLEVELAND, OH

A. MARCO POLO WAS A
VENETIAN ADVENTURER
FAMOUS FOR HIS TRAVELS IN THE ORIENT DURING
THE 13TH CENTURY

Marco Polo was an adventurer who became famous for his travels in China almost 700 years ago.

He was born about the year 1254 in Venice, Italy. His father and uncle were merchants who traveled to distant lands to trade.

Marco was just 17 when he set out with his father and uncle for the strange, faraway land of the Far East. After a journey of more than three years, the Polos reached Cathay (the old name for China). For the next 17 years, Marco Polo traveled all over China.

He found that the Chinese were far ahead of Europe in some ways. They had, for one thing, larger cities.

The Chinese already knew how to make paper. They knew how to print with wooden blocks, and used paper money — much easier to carry than heavy coins. When Marco Polo returned home, he wrote a fascinating account of his travels. His stories gave the people of Europe the first real information about the Orient.

Supreme Court rules on TV filming of Zacchini act

'Human Cannonball' wins legal battle

Hugo Zacchini Jr., the "Human Cannonball," (taught his act by his late father who was a one-time Fontana resident) has won a five-year legal battle for his right not to be filmed.

The U.S. Supreme Court in a 5-4 opinion ruled this week that television production and camera teams do not have the right to film Zacchini's entire 200-foot, 15-second flight into space, hurdled from inside a cannon.

The judgment also stated that broadcast media forfeit its constitutional protection against damage suits if a performer's act is broadcast without his permission.

Zacchini inherited the act in which he is blasted from a cannon from his father, Hugo Sr. Hugo Zacchini Sr. achieved international fame in 1922 when he became the first human cannonball in a circus performance in Cairo, Egypt, propelled from a spring-loaded cannon designed by his father, Hildebrand.

After joining the American Ringling Bros. circus, Zacchini redesigned the cannon to use compressed air for propulsion. It launched him at speeds of more than 185 miles per hour and carried him more than 100 feet into the air.

In the circus tradition, Zacchini trained his son, Hugo Jr., for the cannonball act. He had been shot from the cannon more than 11,000 times before retiring in 1961 and moving to Fontana in 1965. Hugo Sr. died in October 1975.

The younger Zacchini began his legal fight in 1972 following a performance at a fair in Burton, Ohio. He refused to give his consent to have a television reporter film his act, but film was made and later the act was shown in a news program.

"I perform at circuses, fairs, and celebrations and I'm paid to perform," Zacchini said. "If my entire act is televised, it takes away from the novelty of it. And that affects my worth to the fair that is paying me to perform."

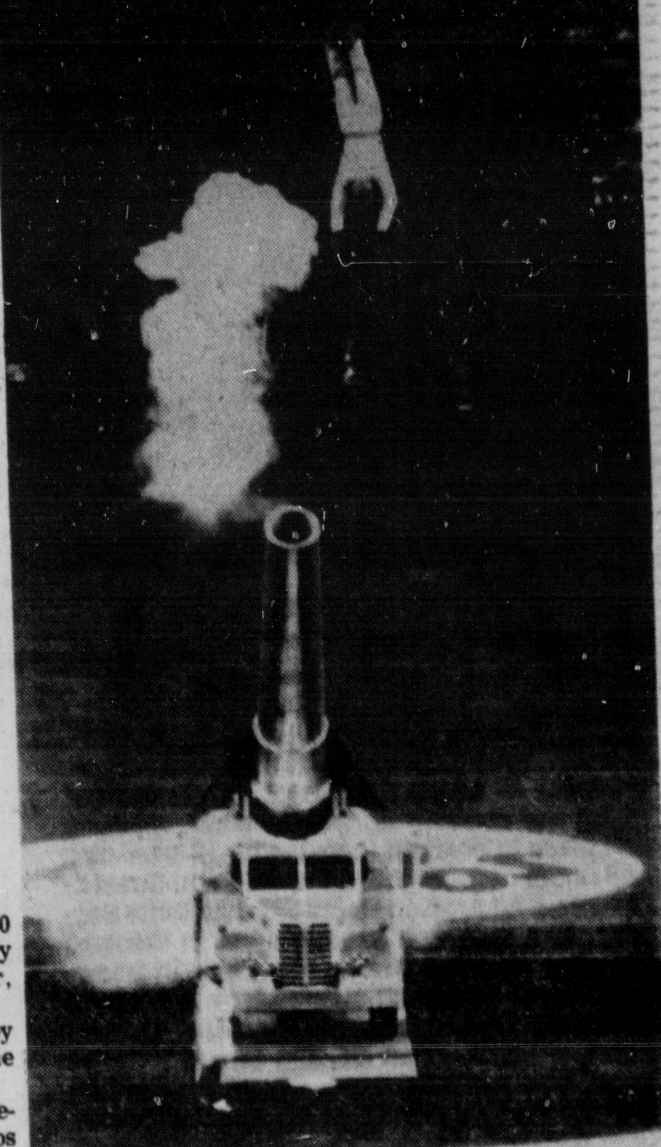

Five justices agreed that the broadcast threatened the economic value of Zacchini's act. The appeal from an Ohio Supreme Court decision against Zacchini was filed by Cleveland attorney John Lancione on behalf of Zacchini.

"If the public can see the act for free on television, they will be less willing to pay to see it," wrote Justice Byron R. White for the majority.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., speaking for the dissenting side, said the judgment may jeopardize the broadcast of legitimate news and inflict self-censorship on the broadcast media.

The majority opinion does not state that Zacchini was damaged by the broadcast, but sets the stage for him to refile the original lawsuit of $25,000 against the television station in an attempt to prove damages.

Students and staff members gathered in Euclid's auditorium for the presentation.

Arson loss very high

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City residents pay $1 million a month for arson losses, which have increased 1,000 per cent since 1967, said a Los Angeles Fire Department spokesman.

James J. O'Neill recommended at a hearing of the state Senate Select Committee on Fire Services that a statewide arson reporting system be established, and that funds for more fire investigators be provided.

Committee Chairman William Campbell, R-25th District, said that in California in 1975, there were 24,778 arson cases that killed 17 persons and injured 317.

Dairy agrees to pay penalty for false ads

A Southland dairy which allegedly sold orange juice blends as pure orange juice has agreed to pay $30,000 in civil penalties for false advertising and unfair competition.

The chain, Rockview Dairies, Inc., which operates in Los Angeles and Orange counties, was taken to court in November, 1976, by the Consumer Protection division of Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp.

The lawsuit claimed Rockview sold more than 400,000 gallons of the less expensive blend as pure orange juice through retail distributors.

Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer also issued an injunction enjoining the dairy from selling any product that is falsely labeled.

According to the stipulation agreed to by Rockview there was no finding of guilt or wrongdoing. The dairy simply agreed not to contest the accusations.

Rip Van Ribbit

says:

“Don’t be caught napping— use the Want Ads.”

“I shouldn’t have taken that second sleeping pill,” croaked Rip Van Ribbit as he opened one bleary eye. “I’d better hop over to Lily’s pad for a cup of coffee and catch up on what’s new.”

Halfway across the pond he ran into his old friend, Phil O’Dendron. “Hi Ya, Phil,” he rasped. “How’s Rhoda? You look terrible. Been sick or something?”

“Rip!” exclaimed Phil. “Where in the bulrushes have you been hiding? And what’s with the ‘I Like Ike’ button?”

“Just overslept,” said Rip. “You oughta do something about those wrinkles.”

“You sound kinda hoarse, Rip.”

“Probably got a person in my throat. Have you seen Lily White?”

“Boy, you HAVE been out of it. Lily moved to the Everglades. Had a big house-cleaning and sold a lot of stuff in the Want Ads. Real estate fella got her a great price on her house and she also found a good reliable car for the trip. You know, in spite of all the changes, those Want Ads still do the same old great job.”

“What changes?” croaked Rip.

Pomona, California ■ Saturday, July 2, 1977

Hollywood Bowl poised for festival . . . (Story on pages 4-5)

Doc PeirsolIt happened in Pomona

By the year 1892 the San Antonio Light and Power Company had finally succeeded in getting its generators operating in San Antonio Canyon and had successfully acquired the City of Pomona as one of its principal electric light and power customers. Consequently the time was ripe to look about for new cities to conquer. At that time San Bernardino was one of the likeliest prospects for additional sales of electricity and consequently, in September 1892, The Pomona Weekly Times reported:

"The San Antonio Light and Power Company, of Pomona, has put in a bid to furnish the City of San Bernardino with 40 electric arc lights of 2,000 candle power, the bid calling for the lights to burn all night at a cost of $110 per light per year or $9.16 per month per light.

But competition in the electric light and power field was extremely keen in this section of Southern California 85 years ago, and in addition to Pomona's San Antonio Light and Power Company bid, a San Bernardino company was proposing to supply the same service at $10 per month per light "moonlight" schedule or $13 per month per light for all night illumination.

And so one would naturally think it would be the Pomona company which got the business. But unfortunately, as all too often happens when city officials finally get around to awarding neither home nor neighboring community talent carried much weight in the final decision. — Nor did the San Antonio Light and Power Company's low bid swing the deal. In a later issue of The Pomona Weekly Times a somewhat disenchanted newspaper editor reported:

"San Bernardino City has just awarded a contract to a foreign company for 40 electric arc lights of 2,000 candle power to burn all night at $11 a month per light."

It has often been commented that playing chess with Bobby Fischer is like playing a chess machine. Now it appears there is a chess machine that may someday play chess like Bobby Fischer.

"Chess 4.5" is a Northwestern University "program" which has been used most recently with the Control Data Company's computer Cyber 176. It's latest achievement is a first-place finish (5-1) in the Minnesota Open Championship!

Some doubt has been cast, however, on "Cyber's" strength by its failure subsequently in the same state's Closed Championship. In that event the computer scored only 1½-2½.

According to International Master and chess-computer specialist David Levy, the players in the first event were "psyched out." In the second tournament, he comments: "the humans played with more care."

Yet Cyber 176 is a definite menace if only because of its awesome powers of calculation. It is many times faster, we are told, than the best computers of 17 years ago which could only handle 40,000 operations per second.

Already it has established a formidable reputation in "blitz" chess. In four games with Levy, the computer taking four seconds a move gained a split. And in two games with World Correspondence Champion Hans Berliner, the machine trounced the human twice!

"CHESS 4.5" vs. LINDEN

In the position below from the Minnesota Closed Championship, "Cyber" kindly warned it's opponent Linden, an 1850 player, to "be careful," i.e. referring to the threat 25 P-N4 mate. Though warned again on each succeeding move of the same game, Linden finally succumbed at move 29.

Antique-wiseAntique lantern made of brass

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: We assumed the lantern we inherited in 1946 was solid copper. This year, thirty years later, we discovered that all 20 pieces of the lantern are solid brass — even the wire bracket. The lantern is in perfect shape. The only mark is located near the top of the glass chimney is the mark DIETZ, FITALL, NEW YORK U.S.A. Any information on value will be appreciated since we have been unable to find any at libraries or museums. The previous owner worked for a firm that manufactured fire engines, years ago. — M.M.G.

ANSWER: Brass lanterns like yours sell from about $150-$185.

QUESTION: I would like to know the probably value of two pieces of very old stickspatter we inherited. These pieces were always used by the small children in the family. The mug is 4½ inches high, having red, blue, green and yellow decorations with a black transfer picture of rabbits playing tennis. The plate, about 8½ inches in diameter has the same decoration. Both pieces show wear, but have no cracks or chips. — Mrs. B.B.

ANSWER: Mugs like you have described sell for about $85, while the matching plates range from around $90-$120. Examples are scarce.

QUESTION: Would you please tell me how much the tool is worth shown in the enclosed drawing? The word "Jmdestro" has been incised on the handle, along with "Pat. Nov. 21, 1921." This tool was originally used for applying a bottle cap to the top of a bottle. — D.E.

ANSWER: Depending upon condition, prices start around $6 and go up to about $12.

Stamps in the news

By SYD KRONISH
U.S. collectors will be interested in changes of dates previously announced by the U.S. Postal Service.

The adhesive commemorating the 50th anniversary of talking pictures will be issued in October and the Galveston Courthouse pictorial postal card will be issued in July. The block of four stamps featuring Pueblo Indian pottery will be issued in April. The single commemorative marking the centennial of Colorado statehood will be issued in May instead of March, and the block of four "Butterfly" stamps will be released in June rather than May.

The United Nations has issued a new stamp to honor the "World Intellectual Property Organization." This is the UN body responsible for regulating and expediting the flow between nations of intellectual properties such as patents, copyrights and proprietary technology.

The design features geometric elements. Superimposed on a globe is a white triangle, the international biological symbol for the human head. Stylized hands representing all races simultaneously shelter and transfer the triangle. The same design appears on the 13-cents and the 31-cents stamps.

Two new commemorative stamps from the Republic of China on Taiwan honor the "Blood Donor" movement in that country. One stamp depicts a close-up view of a blood donor contributing to the supply bank and the second stamp shows a donor giving blood directly to a beneficiary. Both stamps can be obtained at your local stamp dealer.

Hollywood Bowl poised for summer festival

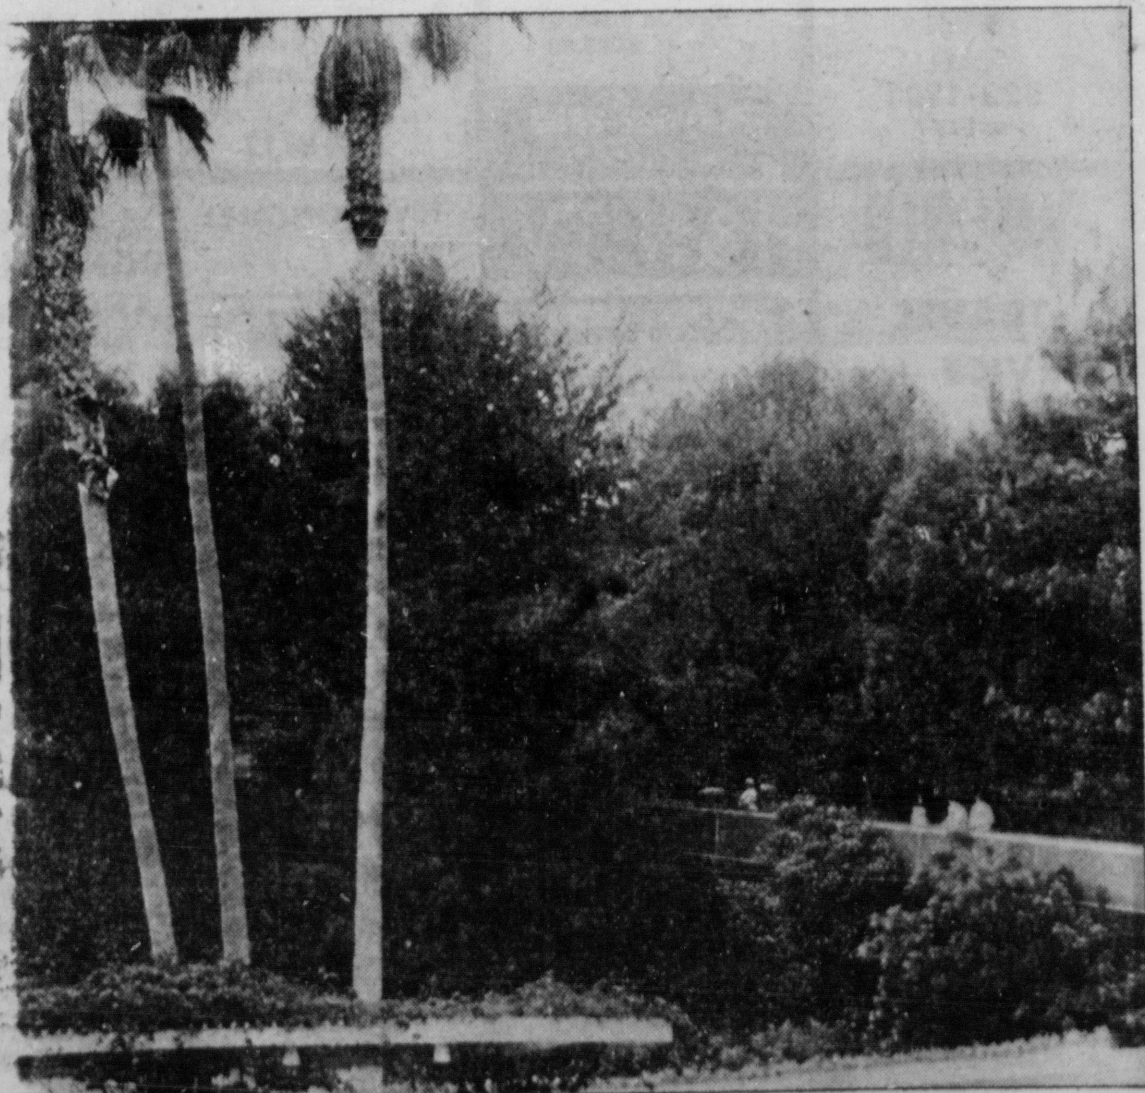

Huge batteries of spotlights peer from the ivy-covered light towers.

The enormous statue of Euterpe, the Muse of Music, greets visitors at the entrance.

Story by Joseph H. Firman PB staff writer

Escalator, at right, takes bowl visitors to the upper reaches of the amphitheater.

ON THE COVER

It's not "The Towering Inferno," but the Los Angeles Philharmonic presenting its spectacular production of Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture, complete with fireworks, cannon and a military band in the Hollywood Bowl. The 17,000-seat outdoor amphitheater has been summer home to the orchestra for more than 50 years. Summer Festival '77 begins July 12.

When maestro Erich Leinsdorf raises his baton in the Hollywood Bowl 10 days from today to conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic and massed choruses in a presentation of Mahler's monumental Symphony No. 8, "Symphony of a Thousand," the downstroke will mark the official opening of Summer Festival '77 at the famed outdoor amphitheater.

The stirring music will resound from the encircling, tree-studded hills and stir the starry skies of Hollywood. The 110-piece Philharmonic, rated by Time Magazine as one of the four leading orchestras in America, will be joined by the Los Angeles Master Chorale, the USC National Workshop Chorale, the California Boys Choir and a handful of internationally acclaimed vocal soloists.

One of the largest natural amphitheaters (17,000 seats) in the world, the Hollywood Bowl has been the summer home of the Philharmonic for more than 50 years. Last year it had the most successful season in its oft-troubled history, drawing nearly half a million music lovers to its 44 orchestral concerts, a record high for any American music festival.

The Bowl was scraped out of the cactus, chaparral and sagebrush of Daisy Dell a half a century ago. The opening season, 1922, nearly foundered for lack of money, but a fund drive brought enthusiastic response from the public (Mrs. Artie Mason Carter, the Bowl Association's first secretary, sold her only diamond ring), and the program was launched. Disaster threatened again during the Depression, but the musicians themselves came to the rescue, personally assuming responsibility for the 1934 season, which was carried off successfully.

The Bowl's most agonizing crisis occurred in 1951 when, with only five concerts presented, the Symphony Association was forced by financial problems, to cancel the remainder of the season. A massive "Save the Bowl" campaign was launched, spearheaded by Mrs. Norman Chandler. Together with music director Alfred Wallenstein, she contacted noted conductors and performing artists who graciously agreed to donate their services to the struggling organization. Twelve days after the Bowl had closed, it opened again.

Today the Hollywood Bowl is healthier than ever, due in large part to the efforts of Ernest Fleischmann, former general manager of the London Symphony Orchestra, who in 1969 became general director of the Bowl and executive director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Under his direction audiences have grown and the season has been extended. A new sound system has been installed, the Patio Restaurant has been improved, and more parking has been added. Clearly the Bowl is here to stay.

The roster of conductors, musicians and singers who have graced the stage of the amphitheater reads like a pantheon of the musical world — Kirsten Flagstad, David Oistrakh, Beverly Sills, Sir John Barbirolli, Gregor Piatigorsky, Lily Pons, Leonard Bernstein, Jascha Heifetz, Birgit Nilsson, Eugene Ormandy, Joan Sutherland, Igor Stravinsky, Isaac Stern. Rudolph Nureyev and Margot Fonteyn have danced there; Mary Costa and Marilyn Horne made their professional debuts at the Bowl; popular celebrities have performed there — the Beatles, Jeanette MacDonald, Frank Sinatra, Barbra Streisand. Lorin Maazel, now music director of the Cleveland Orchestra, conducted the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the Bowl when he was 10. Others who have appeared include presidents Franklin Roosevelt and Dwight Eisenhower, Charles Lindbergh, Bob Hope and Hopalong Cassidy.

Many motion picture and television shows have been filmed at the amphitheater, and dozens of record albums have been produced there. The annual Easter Sunrise Service, with a cross formed by a children's choir, regularly attracts capacity audiences. Fleischmann's "Open House at the Bowl," free daytime programs of music, dance, mime and theatrical performances, draws 70,000 school children during its six-week run.

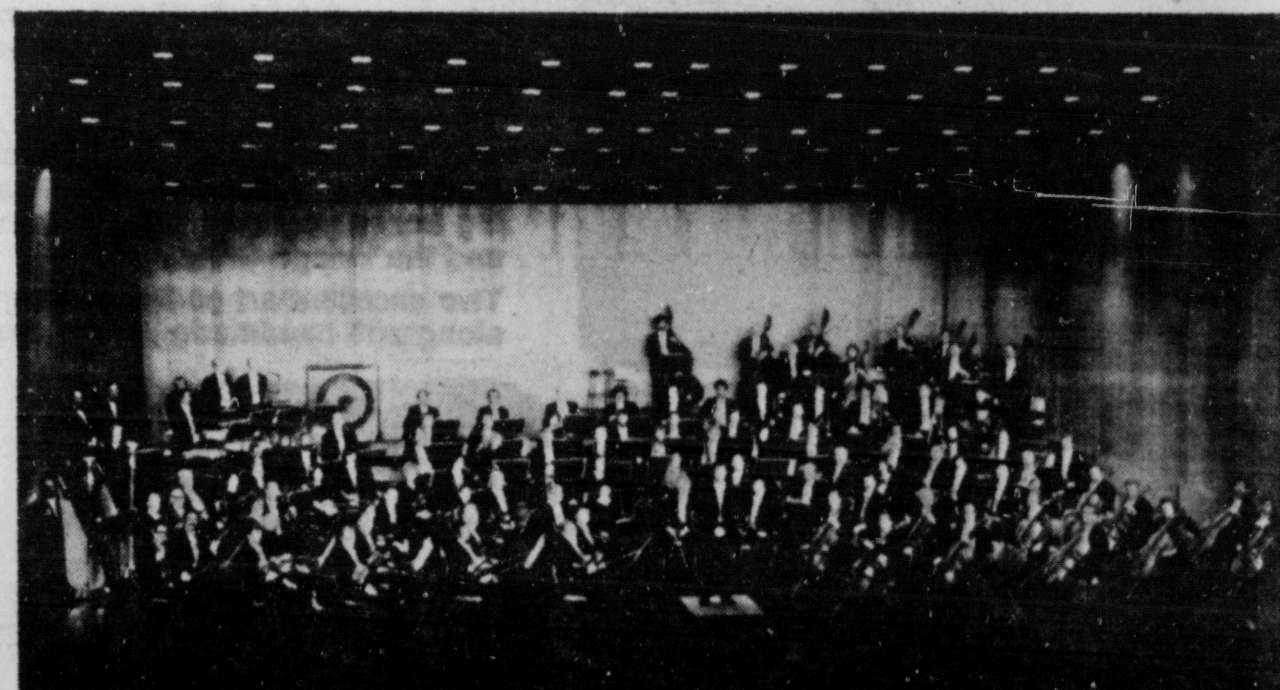

The Bowl is all things to all men, a place for eating and drinking, a place of romance, fun and great music. In one box you will see men and women in formal evening wear dining on squab and champagne; in the next a family with several children will be eating hamburgers and drinking soft drinks. The Patio Restaurant offers fried chicken, elaborate sandwiches, fine wine and beer and gourmet picnic baskets. Booths sell hot dogs, pizza, tacos, popcorn and peanuts.

The Hollywood Bowl's musical fare matches this cross-section of American life. This summer Bowl-goers will see everyone from Leonard Pennario to the Big Bird of Sesame Street, from Delcina Stevenson to Ethel Merman, from Itzhak Perlman to Sarah Vaughan and Carmen McRae. From its humble beginning, the Hollywood Bowl has risen to international stature among summer music centers and has proved a major cultural contribution to Southern California.

A free copy of the 1977 Hollywood Bowl brochure can be obtained by writing to Hollywood Bowl Brochure, 135 N. Grand Ave., Los Angeles 90012.

The Hollywood Bowl, seen at night from the hills behind the stage, resembles a giant, jeweled fan.

Zubin Mehta and the Los Angeles Philharmonic make the Hollywood Bowl their summer home.

Dining in a bowl box before the concert is a longtime tradition.

YANKEE DOODLE never had it so good. The bargains and specials in the Claremont Village on Saturday, July 2nd would remind one of real "Old Fashioned Values."

While spending a carefree day in the best kept secret in Southern California, snapping up rare buys and making shrewd purchases, the kids will revel in watching artisans, craftsmen and entertainers, casually plying their trade and strolling through the streets of the mini-megalopolis — the Claremont Village.

For a fun day with laughs, entertainment, good deals and a trip to "Home Town — Down Town," plan to be in on the "YANKEE DOODLE DAY IN THE VILLAGE."

DISCOVER CLAREMONT

On the small scale that invites abandoning your automobile, Claremont remains a quiet enclave even as freeways practically encircle it. Here are streets lined with giant trees and a tiny two-block-long Village with a surprising variety of shops.

To spend a pleasant day exploring the city, either plan to park your car and walk, or take a bicycle and join the many bicycling residents and students. Claremont looks like the utopian paintings on old orange-crate labels — sparkling town beneath the sheer bulk of the San Gabriel Mountains.

CLAREMONT VILLAGE

The Village runs just two blocks along Yale and Harvard, on Second and Bonita, but in it you'll find a potpourri of shops. Three are among the best of their kind of Southern California: Folk Music Center sells folk instruments of many countries, Hidden Village is a small yarn shop with a wide variety of imported wools and handweaving tools, and the Raku-Tsia gallery specializes in folk art and imports. Also on Yale, another stop to consider is the danson, a delicatessen and sidewalk cafe featuring nine kinds of avocado sandwiches.

There is Mexican food at Pepito's, Italian food at Federico's, Pizza n' Stuff and La Piccoletta, Greek food at Yiannis, and excellent salad bar at the Imagination Station, soup and sandwich at the Wooden Nickel, outstanding frozen yogurt at Der Freehling and good coffee shop fare at Walter's and the Village Grille.

Two excellent art galleries, Renrev and Gallery 8 are on Bonita Avenue along with handmade jewelry, antiques and stained glass.

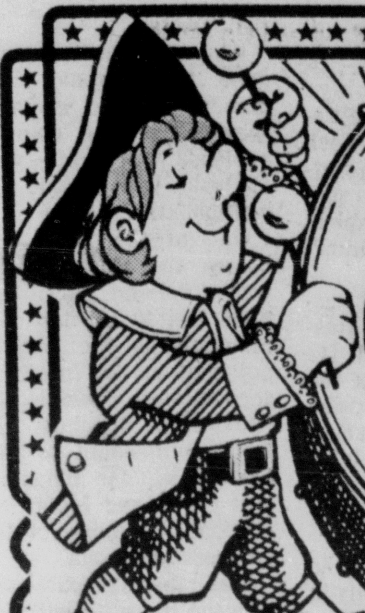

The compact and picturesque little Claremont Village contains an amazing variety of shops and stores. There's a florist, a house and hardware store, television and camera shop, plant works, gift shops, grocery store, drug stores, print shops, clothing stores, leather goods, sports shop, jewelry stores, theatre, shoe shops, health foods, auto parts, interior decorators, bakery, banks, post office, savings and loan, library, doctors, city hall, realtors, gas station, insurance offices, cleaners, barbers, shoe repair, fire station, escrow service, dentists, CPA's, optometrists and attorneys.

In California

Russian fort still standing

FORT ROSS, Calif. (AP) — For a brief moment — as time is reckoned on history's clock — Russians colonized a tiny part of California, surveyed the land and dreamed of expansion on the American mainland.

In that dusty corridor of time long past, their decision to leave rates as one of the turning points in the annals of both countries.

Had the Russians chosen to stay, it might have meant eventual confrontation between two of the most powerful nations on earth. But they did leave, and for a time each country worked in its own way to tame the same wild continent.

For 29 years beginning in 1812, the Russians and their helpers built and maintained Fort Ross. That colonial occupation 80 miles north of San Francisco brought the skills, knowledge and manners of old Europe into the California wilderness.

The colonists were put there by the Russian American Company for the stated purpose of gathering pelts of the sea otter and producing food to support the company's fur gathering operations in Kamchatka and Alaska. But there was another pur-

The executives of the company, which operated under authority granted by Czar Alexander I, had on their minds a permanent foothold and expansion on the American continent. The colony and its port operation at Bodega Bay, 25 miles south, were founded without opposition and existed for years without serious challenge.

The story of Fort Ross, pieced together from interviews and historical accounts, reads like an exciting adventure yarn. The roots of the saga are planted at Fort Ross, where the two-headed eagle flag of the Russian American company still flies over the stockade, now a national landmark and a state historical park.

To discover everything possible about the colony, why it came, what it accomplished, and the preservation of what was left, is the special interest of Nicholas I. Rokitiensky, professor of Russian history and language at Foothill College.

The intense, Russian-born academician dismisses any suggestion that the Russians limited themselves to slaughtering sea otters and growing food for themselves and their country's frosty outposts miles away.

Rokitiensky displays what he says are little-known Russian and French manuscripts and maps attesting to the colony's support of science and exploration in Northern California.

"They surveyed the Russian River and gave Russian names to all its tributaries; they built the first shipyard in Northern California; they catalogued the official California flower, the golden poppy; they named Mount Shasta."

Aleuts, brought by the Russians, went out daily in kayaks to hunt sea otters, while serious farming went on around the fort, surrounded eventually by some 50 buildings. The settlers built several ships on a ramp constructed on the beach below the fort and conducted a lively commerce with Spaniards.

According to a memoir by Duflet de Mofras, a prominent French attache in Mexico, there were 700 persons at Fort Ross shortly before the colony disbanded in December 1841.

As translated by Rokitiensky, maps showed the Russian River with the name "Slovianka." Bodega Bay was called "Port Rumiantsov" after a nobleman; explorers from Fort Ross named the 14,162-foot mountain they found 120 miles northeast of the fort "Shast'ia," Russian for "good luck." The American River was called the "Ohotsk."

When the Russians were gone, the Slavonic place names they had given to features of the country vanished with them — with at least one notable exception.

One of the final acts before the Russians left was a solemn pilgrimage 2,960 feet to the top of a mountain in the country adjacent to the fort. One account says it was led by Alexander Rotchev, the last commandant to rule Fort Ross. The mountain was christened Mount St. Helena, the name of the empress of Russia.

Many theories exist as to why the Russians left Fort Ross, after selling out to the Swiss adventurer John Sutter, for $30,000.

Rokitiensky thinks Czar Nicholas I, who was being pressed by the Mexicans for Russian recognition in exchange for permanent land grants in Northern California, didn't want anything to do with "revolutionaries."

Most authorities say it was economic — that the fur hunting was going bad and food could be obtained more cheaply elsewhere. Others insist that Great Britain forced Russia to abandon its California outpost and go back north above the 54th parallel.

Katoh's taxi is trimmings triumph

TOKYO (AP) — Airlines and hotels offer VIP treatment and so does Tokyo taxi driver Setsuo Katoh — in a big way.

His is one of about 19,000 privately owned taxis among the 50,000 operating in this city. A number of the private owners take pride in their cars and their courtesy, but Katoh has taken things further.

A sign declaring it a "Presidential Suite" hangs in the $7,200 car Katoh bought three years ago. On entering, passengers are greeted with the tape-recorded voice of Katoh's wife saying: "Welcome aboard this taxi, and please watch your head."

Then there are free cigarettes and chewing gum, a color television set, stereo music, and a selection of magazines ranging from weekly journals for the housewife to soft-core pornography.

If a passenger is tired, there is an electric massage machine. There is also an electric shaver. And if the mood is for song, there is a microphone hooked up to the stereo system.

There is no extra charge for these extras. Passengers pay only the regular fare, starting at about the equivalent of one U.S. dollar for the first mile.

"Most of my passengers are astonished or puzzled when they step in," Katoh said. "One young lady started to get in recently, exclaimed, 'Is this a taxi?', and got out in a hurry."

But the usual reaction, after the initial surprise, is one of appreciation.

The inside of the taxi itself is impressive. In addition to the mechanical devices, the ceiling is decorated with a life-size, black-ink print of a two-foot bream Katoh caught. Scores of small dolls and other folk handicrafts fill the spaces unoccupied by electronics.

"I think I have invested about $3,000 in these extras but it pays," Katoh said. "It makes my passengers happy, and I've made quite a few friends. They often charter my taxi, which helps make me financially stable."

Katoh said he usually pays about $40 a month to maintain the extra features of the presidential taxi, with the money going for cigarettes, chewing gum, fresh flowers and magazines. He works from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m., covering about 120 miles a day in about 15 to 16 paid rides, he said.

"I make about $1,200 to $1,300 gross a month," he explained. "And I pay a maximum $300 for gas, oil and other mechanical expenses."

Civil war aftermath: Beirut tourism down

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In past springs, tourists used to flock to this Mideast oasis for sun and fun. Nowadays, the few who do come prefer to gawk at the not-so-ancient ruins of the Lebanese civil war.

To the chagrin of tourist officials, bombed-out buildings and teeming refugee camps are the top "attractions" in Beirut today. Although the government tourist ministry eagerly awaits a large-scale return of foreigners — and their money — it does not encourage the "ghoul tour" of postwar devastation.

"You can't prevent it, but we think it's in bad taste to encourage it," said Habib Letayf, director of promotions for the government tourist ministry.

No matter why they are here, the numbers of tourists coming to Lebanon half a year after the ceasefire is so insignificant the government hasn't bothered to start keeping track. Prior to the 1975-76 war, tourism accounted for 20 per cent of the country's national income.

Today, most of Beirut's 50 remaining hotels are almost empty. Restaurants and clubs usually have more uniformed waiters than customers, except for a handful of "in" spots that have returned to their prewar bustle.

Besides the allure of war rubble, there is so far little to bring the American or European tourist back, especially with postwar inflation running at 32 per cent.

The Arab tourist — the one with the big money — has also not returned, but some Lebanese are confident that he soon will.

"I think they feel more comfortable here than in places like London," said Raffy Gabriellian, a local travel agent.

The tourist ministry in concentrating its immediate efforts on getting Arab oil tycoons back and has written off any campaign to lure Western tourists to Lebanon this year.

The government would like the sheiks and princes to reclaim their summer palaces on the city's outskirts and is even sending a delegation down to the Persian Gulf to extend a formal invitation.

But some observers here think such optimism is premature. "Even if they do want to come back, and some surely do, let's not forget that the war was largely a Christian-Moslem conflict that has yet to be resolved," said an Arab diplomat here. Politically, it's too early for Arab leaders to give their blessing back to Lebanon, he said.

Looking ahead to 1978, the year they hope the boom will resume, tourist officials have decided to plot a sober, realistic campaign and not try to portray Beirut as fun city arisen from the ashes. Because it hasn't yet, and Lebanon's future is uncertain.

While the leaders continue to mull over and bicker about the future look of the country, the economy remains in tatters.

The old guidebooks, showing mosques which are now rubble heaps, have yet to be revised. The ancient Roman ruins of Baalbeck in northeastern Lebanon suffered some slight damage from bullet holes but are among the few major tourist attractions largely intact.

For Pataskala man

Log cabin dream has come true

PATASKALA, Ohio (AP) — "You know what I've always wanted," William Phillips mused to his wife last summer. "A log cabin."

She didn't comment and he thought, "Well, that's the end of that."

Next day at dinner, Mrs. Phillips asked where he would put a cabin.

"Right out there next to the bean field," he replied. Still no comment.

The third day when they sat down to eat, Mrs. Phillips asked, "Who'd build it?"

"I would," the 69-year-old farmer replied.

"If you think we can do it, I'll help you," she said.

Now, less than a year later, a sturdy cabin sits across the drive from the Phillips' farm home four miles southwest of this Locking County community.

"We had a lot of fun doing it and will have a lot more fun using it," Phillips said.

He and his wife, Opal, 64, haven't abandoned their farm home for the 16-by-24-foot cabin, but admit to spending a lot of time in it.

They did all the work themselves except for building the stone fireplace.

The outside walls are made of used utility poles. Phillips gathered stones from his fields for the fireplace. He figures the entire project cost less than $4,000.

He and his wife of 46 years used a small tractor with a hydraulic lift to maneuver the poles into place. A chain saw saved a lot of energy in notching the poles.

Phillips said he never had built much before but "being a farmer 60 years, you got to learn how to drive a few nails."

The cabin was started in the fall and wooden shingles were in place before winter. This spring they put rough-sawn cedar on inside walls and built a small loft. The cabin is furnished with a wood-burning stove, a homemade table and some furniture from their house.

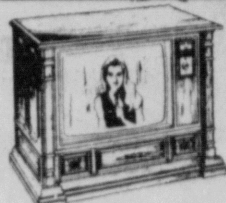

Most of the couple's family of four daughters and a son, ten grandchildren and a great-grandchild live nearby and are sharing the cabin fun.

"He wanted a dirt floor, but I said no," explained Mrs. Phillips. She won and the cabin has a plank floor.

Seek tariff on CB sets

By INK DIPPER

There may be a CB storm brewing.

So many CB units are manufactured in Japan that no one, even the industry experts, knows for sure what percentage of the total annual production is imported.

It is estimated that somewhere between 5 and 15 per cent of all CB units are made in this country. E.F. Johnson, one of the major manufacturers, accounts for the vast bulk of this production. Most other manufacturers either get all their units from the Orient or they import parts and assemble them here.

What has happened is this: Johnson's president, Richard Horner, wants to get relief for the domestic CB market from the flood of CB imports which the television manufacturers marketed several months ago.

Johnson has tried to get other CB makers to join him in filing an import-injury claim with the Federal Government. Reports from the trade indicate that even those who are semi-domestic producers won't join him.

Horner's contention is that, since there is no home market for CBs in Japan and that Customs Court rulings on countervailing duties do not apply to CBs, Section 201 of the Tariff Act, which makes it possible for the Federal Government to restrict trade, is the only realistic protection for manufacturers of CBs in the United States.

Horner hasn't been too successful in lining up support. Some have said they'd join in a limited way, but very few have made a wholehearted commitment. Motorola, too, produces all its units in the United States, as do some others. Hy-Gain uses imported parts and subassemblies for final production in its plant in Puerto Rico.

The main theme of the arguments against the filing is that the United States manufacturing process must be competitive with that of other countries, or arrive at some cost accommodation, such as importing.

As a CBer, it seems to me that the consumer is best served by competition, and least served when competition is restricted or lessened. Prices of CB units over the past few years have gone up and down like a yo-yo. When there was a shortage as millions of newcomers discovered Citizens Band radio, prices were superhigh. Then a lot of manufacturers jumped into the business, and, as their production increased, prices began to reflect this competitive environment.

Whether the unit comes from Japan or the United States should be of no consequence because the CBer benefits in many ways, in this CBer's view. His selection availability, features included in the units, as well as quality of the product.

Bach Festival set at Bowl

Robert Shaw, music director of the Atlanta Symphony and a Bach specialist, will be on the podium for the three concerts of the Bach Festival at the Hollywood Bowl Thursday, Friday and next Saturday.

At the three low-priced pre-season events, Shaw will direct the Los Angeles Philharmonic, distinguished vocal and instrumental soloists, and the USC National Workshop Chorale in a widely varied schedule of works by Johann Sebastian Bach.

A musician admired by the late George Szell, for whom he served as associate conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, and by the late Arturo Toscanini, Shaw has established himself as one of the most versatile conductors before the public today, equipped to control both orchestral and choral forces.

At the Bowl, Shaw will lead the Bach Festival's roster of performers in nine compositions: four choral works, including the "St. Matthew Passion," sung in Shaw's own English translation, and the "Magnificat," and five orchestral pieces, including the Fourth Brandenburg Concerto, the Concerto for Two Violins, and the Harpsichord Concerto No. 1 in D Minor.

The soloists scheduled to sing under Shaw's baton are sopranos Felicity Palmer and Daisietta Kim, mezzo Florence Quivar, tenors William Harness and Seth McCoy, baritone Richard Stilwell and bass Simon Estes.

The top price on July 7 and 8 is $4.50 ($6.00 on July 9). Tickets are on sale at the Hollywood Bowl box office and at all Mutual agencies. Master Charge and BankAmericard are accepted and credit card orders may be phoned in to (213) 851-5212.

HIGH ON THE WIRE — Valentino, star high wire artist of the Kaye Continental Circus, will be one of the performers at the Rose Bowl Circus and Fireworks Show in Pasadena at 8 p.m. Monday. Tickets are $4 for adults.

Harmon to star in 'Horseman'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another sports star makes it to the movies — Mark Harmon, former quarterback for UCLA and son of grid immortal Tom Harmon and actress Elyse

Knox. Harmon makes his film debut in "Comes a Horseman Wild and Free," United Artists' action drama starring James Caan, Jane Fonda and Jason Robards. Harmon plays a returning war veteran in the movie, set in Montana in 1945.
